Tough Problems Facing Legislators

Rusk May Explain Pledge of Help Humphrey Gave to Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk may tell senators today whether Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's pledge of "all necessary assistance" to Southeast Asia countries involves fighting for them.

That is the bedrock issue behind a Senate Foreign Relations Committee's request for Rusk's reaction to a proposed amendment by Chairman J.W. Fulbright to a pending $415-million foreign aid authorization bill.

Fulbright has offered a rider saying that approval of the measure or the furnishing of economic and military assistance to any country cannot be construed as a commitment to defend those nations with American forces.

The Arkansas Democrat contends that the United States' involvement in the Viet Nam conflict had its beginnings with the furnishing of economic aid. He warned Sunday that if the Viet Nam war becomes "opened" there is real danger of war with China and announced his committee will begin Tuesday a series of hearings "to increase our understanding of China."

At point in the committee's request issued at Bangkok during the course of the vice president's recent nine-nation tour of Asia and the Pacific which said: "He (Humphrey) emphasized the determination of the United States to provide all necessary assistance to enable Thailand and the other countries of Southeast Asia threatened by Communist aggression to defend themselves and to achieve in peace their just economic and social aims."

Fulbright and some other committee members want to know if this means possible extension of the Viet Nam fighting to Thailand. They have been informed that the United States, which has a mammoth air base there, already has 20,000 or more troops in Thailand.

Rusk's reply may influence committee action on Fulbright's proposed rider, although the chairman already has said publicly he doubts the committee will approve it or a similar proposal made by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

McGovern has offered a rider that would make it clear passage of the aid bill involves no endorsement of Johnson's conduct of the Viet Nam war. But he said he will not press it in the Senate if the committee rejects it.

In his Red China policy statement, Fulbright said some U.S. experts believe Chinese leaders expect war with the United States within a year. He added that some Americans also expect such a conflict.

Fulbright said he scheduled the committee hearings on China because they might alter this

"fatal expectancy" of war.

Before fresh political and military decisions are made on Southeast Asia, the chairman said, it is essential to try to understand the Chinese and their leaders.

In a top weekend development, it was revealed that presidential adviser Maxwell D. Taylor believes that U.S. mines should be used to seal the harbor of Haiphong in North Viet Nam.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., asked Taylor in writing about the port. Taylor's reply, published Saturday, said, "I am inclined to believe that the time has been reached when we should mine this harbor and cut off the shipping which normally uses it."

The Johnson administration has thus far spared the Viet Nam capital of Hanoi and Haiphong of bombings or other direct military actions.

Voting Rights Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld today key sections of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

The high tribunal upheld the power of Congress under the Constitution's 15th Amendment to suspend state literacy tests and similar voting qualifications, and to authorize the federal government to register qualified voters in various sections of the country.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, in the majority opinion, dismissed a Deep South attack on constitutionality of the act.

"We hold," Warren said, "that the sections of the act which are properly before us are an appropriate means for carrying out Congress' constitutional responsibilities and are consonant with all other provisions of the constitution."

Justice Hugo L. Black wrote a separate opinion concurring in part and dissenting in part. Warren's opinion declared: "Hopefully, millions of non-white Americans will now be able to participate for the first time on an equal basis in the government under which they live. We may finally look forward to the day when truly the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude."

Warren's quotation was of the Constitution's 15th Amendment. Joining in the Warren opinion were Justices William O. Douglas, Tom C. Clark, John M. Harlan, William J. Brennan, Potter Stewart, Byron White and Abe Fortas.

South Carolina, joined by Virginia, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi had attacked the new law as violative of the Constitution. The federal government defended the law and was joined by 20 states.

Warren's opinion said two points "emerge vividly" from the legislative history of the act. First, that Congress felt itself "confronted by an insidious and pervasive evil which had been perpetuated in certain parts of our country by unremitting and ingenious defiance of the Constitution."

Second, he said, Congress concluded that the unsuccessful remedies which it had prescribed in the past would have to be replaced by "sterner and more elaborate measures."

Marines Shatter North Vietnam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. Marines brought their first year in Viet Nam to a thunderous finish today by joining with crack South Vietnamese troops to shatter a 2,000-man North Vietnamese regiment.

Nearly 1,000 Communists were said to have fallen before the combined air-ground assault by 6,000 Leathernecks, government paratroopers and rangers in three days of blistering fighting, that the Marines called their roughest action and best showing of the war.

The fierce battle tapered off into a mop-up operation today, with the Marines and Vietnamese troops in pursuit of small bands of Red survivors. Prisoners said the regiment had been in South Viet Nam only a month since it filtered down from the North by the jungled Ho Chi Minh Trail, Allied spokesmen reported.

But the victory was costly for the Allies. Marine officers told correspondents at the battle scene along the central coast that the Marines took their heaviest losses of any single battle in Viet Nam, although over-all Marine casualties were described as light. The toll came in the initial assault on Friday.

Eleven helicopters were hit by the Communists and two knocked down. The withering Red fire also forced down a Marine Phantom jet. The two crewmen ejected safely offshore.

The intelligence information that enabled the Allied force to trap the Red regiment was provided by two North Vietnamese soldiers captured by government troops at the beginning of the month. They disclosed that the North Vietnamese regiment's mission was to cut Route 1, the strategic coastal highway, by mining it and blowing up a bridge.

The Marines launched Operation Utah with their Vietnamese allies Friday. Some troops dropped into the valley by helicopter, others pushed in by road. Artillery and air strikes softened up the enemy.

Weatherers and Special Butler File For Board Session Begins

Two more men have tossed their hats into the ring for the April 5 school board election.

Dr. Wendell Weatherers, dentist, and Rev. C. D. Butler, pastor of the Murray Lane Baptist church, filed Saturday as candidates before the filing deadline with Charles D. Matthews, board secretary.

There are four candidates to fill two vacancies. Lee Austin Bowman and Dr. A. D. Martin filed earlier. Dr. Martin is a candidate to succeed himself.

L. M. Standley, president of the board, is not a candidate.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A budget of nearly a billion dollars and some tough political problems faced Missouri legislators today as they returned to the Capitol for their third session in 14 months.

The special session was called by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes primarily to provide money to operate the state government in the fiscal year starting July 1. But he added 20 other topics for the legislators to consider, some of them bound to stir controversy.

At the outset the two that seemed most likely to set off barrages of debate were regulation of highway billboards in order to qualify for federal funds and a "shared time" proposal that would let parochial students share instruction in special subjects.

The governor was to outline details of his proposals soon after the legislators convened at 2 p.m. and settled their routine organizational problems.

Most legislators who have commented on the special session think it will run the full constitutional limit of 60 days.

The governor is more optimistic. He thinks the work could be done in five weeks.

In a pre-session radio interview (KWOB) he said today the House Appropriations chairman, Rep. Bernard (Doc) Smoot, D-Callaway, County, expects to send the money bill to the Senate by the end of the third week.

The Senate, meanwhile, will be working on his other recommendations and should be ready to send at least some of them to the House by that time.

Smoot's committee expects to start its closed door calculating immediately with a goal of passing the emergency appropriations bill by next Monday.

Both House and Senate Appropriations committees cleared the decks for swift action by holding pre-session hearings.

The governor clamped down hard on requests for capital improvements and cut some of the operating requests sharply to stay within the expected income from general revenue.

He said in today's interview everyone recognizes the need for a big building program at state colleges and universities, the correctional and mental health institutions. The only question is whether it should be financed from year to year or whether the state should vote a big bond issue for a crash program.

To solve that problem he recommended the legislature set up a special House-Senate committee to study the need for and feasibility of a bond issue.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, Senate Appropriations chairman, already is on record for setting up a long range system of building priorities before any bond issue goes before the people.

In the regular six-month session last year and in the special one-month session last fall, House redistricting was the biggest legislative bugaboo.

This time a House redistricting commission approved by the people at the Jan. 14 special election will be in session and many rural House members whose seats are threatened will be doing all they can to get districts mapped out where they might stand a chance of returning to the assembly.

Under any reapportionment plan that fits the equal population standard, urban areas stand to wind up with almost half of the 163 seats.

Strike Stops Five Papers

BOSTON AP -- A strike of printers and mailers has left Greater Boston's more than 2.5 million inhabitants without five of their daily newspapers.

Shut down as a result of a contract dispute were the morning and evening Globe, the morning Herald, the evening Traveler, and the Record American, which has morning and evening editions.

Locals of the International Typographical Union and the Mailers Union voted 1,266 to 56 Sunday for the strike.

The Christian Science Monitor is unaffected.

The printers and mailers demand cash raises. The publishers contend they should accept the same company-paid health-welfare and pension plan negotiated with other newspaper craft unions.

Thai Highly Respected as Military Leader

WASHINGTON AP -- The North Vietnamese general believed leading Communist forces in South Viet Nam is respected as a first-class strategist, an able planner and a competent field commander.

This evaluation of Lt. Gen. Hoang Van Thai has been made for Washington officials after painstaking exploration of the Chinese-trained general's background.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Thai, former assistant chief of the North Vietnamese Joint General Staff, infiltrated into South Viet Nam in early 1964 "and reportedly is the current commander of the Viet Cong armed forces."

McNamara also said a second North Vietnamese lieutenant general named Luong also was a 1964 infiltrator into South Viet Nam.

Luong may be in charge of political affairs for the highest Communist headquarters in South Viet Nam, McNamara said.

No details in Luong's background were available.

Blast Ruins Clubhouse

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- Police Inspector Robert McClellan says the explosion which shattered the national headquarters of the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs may have been a dynamite charge -- as much as 40 pounds of it.

The blast Sunday ripped open the inside of the club's ramshackle two-story building, spraying glass and wood fragments on neighboring buildings and littering the street. There were no reported injuries.

"We have no definite leads or suspects," said McClellan. He said the blast may have been a dynamite charge placed under the front porch of the building, located in a run-down residential section several blocks from the city's Civic Center.

The explosion came less than 48 hours after the Justice Department moved to require the DuBois Clubs to register as a Communist front organization.

Hollenbecks Given Tickets

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., AP -- Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hollenbeck of Cape Girardeau, who were aboard the British jetliner that crashed Saturday on the slopes of Mt. Fuji in Japan, were making an Asian tour on tickets given to them by a close friend.

Charles N. Harris, a Cape Girardeau banker and owner of a truck and trailer firm, won the tour trip sponsored by the Thermo King Corp. of Minneapolis, Minn. He said he and his wife decided two months ago to make the trip because their daughter was expecting a baby.

"We thought we'd give the tickets to the Hollenbecks because they were very good friends, they had no children and they loved to make trips," Harris said.

Hollenbeck, a businessman, was a pilot, as is Harris. They had been friends 35 years.

Woman Denies Marriage Plans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blonde Candace Mossler set out today, as she put it, to mother a brood of adored children and to "pick up the pieces" of a $33-million business.

She was asked in the presence of her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, following their acquittal Sunday in the 1964 slaying of her multimillionaire husband: "Mrs. Mossler, will you and Mel Powers be married?"

In a little girl voice, normal for her but tinged it seemed with a trace of vexation, Mrs. Mossler with her children behind her, replied at a news conference: "We don't have any intentions in that direction."

Union between aunt and nephew is generally forbidden by American law, although it would be possible outside the United States. Florida law prohibits marriage between blood aunt and nephew.

Less than three hours earlier, Mrs. Mossler and Powers had been acquitted by an all-male jury of the brutal slaying of her husband, Jacques Mossler, 69.

The jury heard more than 100 witnesses during the seven-

Mansfield Calms Some Senate Criticism of Viet Nam Course

WASHINGTON (AP)—A quiet Irishman with a velvet glove has helped calm some of the Senate criticism of President Johnson's course in Viet Nam.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, has demonstrated in the week since he returned from a recuperative vacation in Florida that soft words diminish wrath, if they do not always turn it away.

The second day after the tall, lean Montana senator climbed back in the leadership saddle, the Senate passed overwhelmingly a $4.8-billion military authorization bill that had been before it since Feb. 14 while members wrangled over Viet Nam.

Mansfield, with characteristic modesty, takes no personal credit for this. He says the members were just tired of squabbling and ready to act.

Within hours after his return, the Democratic leader helped extricate Vice President Hubert

H. Humphrey from a sticky situation brought about by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's invitation for him to testify before it on his nine-nation tour of Asia.

No vice president can afford to let a committee order him around, and Humphrey was determined not to be put on the stand at a public hearing.

Acting Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana already had traded verbal blows with Chairman J.W. Fulbright in the Foreign Relations Committee's televised hearings. Relations between them were strained.

But Mansfield prevailed on Fulbright to join with him in inviting Humphrey to sit down with senators and talk informally with them. The session turned out to be a friendly one, with nobody going away mad.

Now Mansfield is drawing on his seemingly inexhaustible

supply of patience to move the Senate toward a vote on a $415-million foreign aid authorization which includes $275 million in economic aid for Viet Nam.

The Democratic leader occupies a unique position in standing apart from the noisy Senate uproar over Viet Nam. Quietly, he had opposed the resumption of North Viet Nam bombing, thus siding with Fulbright.

For all their recent chatting at a White House party, the President and Fulbright are not what could be called chummy at this point.

In contrast, Johnson and Mansfield continue to maintain close relations. Mansfield had his reservations about steps Johnson has taken and communicated them to Johnson. But his attitude has been that "we're in this thing too deep" to carp at the President publicly.

Heavy Loss In Blizzard

FARGO, N. D. AP -- Road-plowing crews and rescue missions began bringing relief today to blizzard-battered parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota.

The toll of deaths stood at 16. Ranchers were counting up a heavy loss of livestock, especially in South Dakota.

Helicopters and airplanes, bulldozers and plows worked to relieve thousands stranded in what has been termed the Dakotas' worst storm in decades.

Travelers who had taken refuge in stores, cafes, service stations, or homes continued their journeys.

Stores of human kindness and heroic effort came out of the chill, snow-swept land.

Like the North Dakota farm boy, Orin Auck, of rural Sterling, who scanned the whitened countryside and got worried when he didn't see smoke coming out of a neighbor's chimney. The 12-year-old boy put on his coat and overshoes and trudged through deep snowdrifts to the farm of Lowell Brown, who lived alone. There, he found the 65-year-old farmer dead, his body draped over a windmill brace in the yard—a victim of the blizzard which lashed the Dakotas like this last week.

Vignettes like these were commonplace as rural and city folk alike fought for survival against the storm.

Six of the storm deaths occurred in South Dakota and five each in North Dakota and Minnesota.

There was a staggering loss in cattle and sheep—perhaps running in the millions of dollars.

In both states, work crews pushed around the clock to open up roads clogged with drifts up to 25 feet deep.

Four Injured In Collision

James Franklin, 28, Troup, Tex., a passenger in a 1961 tractor-trailer, today remained in a critical condition from head injuries received in a two-truck crash Saturday at 5:45 a.m. near Old Appleton, on highway 61.

He was one of four persons injured, when the tractor-trailer, driven by Bill Norman, 35, Troup, traveling south, was involved in the collision. A 1964 Ford truck, driven by James Motton, 27, Caruthersville, northbound, slid sideways on the icy pavement into the other vehicle, the state patrol reported.

Others injured were Norman, head and arm injury; Tommy Gaston, 30, Caruthersville, shoulder and hip injuries, and Motton, minor injuries.

All were taken to the Perry County Hospital in Perryville. Saturday at 2:15 p.m. on highway 61, two miles east of Steele, Anna Deuser, 83, Lion, Miss., passenger in one car involved in a two-car collision received injuries to her arm and was taken to a Hayti hospital.

She was riding in a 1961 Falcon, driven by Alma Twiehaus, 50, Lion, when a 1959 Ford, driven by A. J. Brown, 21, Caruthersville, failed to stop at a sign, collided with the car.

A 1964 Buick, driven by Dianne Cole, 21, Maplewood, pulled in front of a 1958 Chevrolet, driven by Herbert Ragdsdale, 56, Matthews, Saturday at 3 p.m. on route H, in Matthews, and collided. Neither driver was injured.

Sunday at 2:45 p.m. on the Sandy road in Morley, a 1963 Ford, driven by Donald McCarty, 18, Chaffee, and a 1963 Plymouth, driven by Bennie Walker, 63, Bertrand, collided at an intersection. Neither driver was injured.

Conflict of Interest Seen

JEFFERSON CITY AP -- Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson held today it would be a violation of Missouri's new conflict of interest law if an alderman of a fourth class city took part in the selection of a bank in which he is an officer as the municipal depository.

The opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Gordon Siddons for State Rep. Homer M. Clements, D-Jackson County, followed the legal guidelines set down in a March 3 opinion for Rep. Robert P. Warden, R-Jasper county.

The earlier opinion applied to the mayor of a third class city who also was an officer of the city's depository.

Eight Treated For Injuries

Air Disasters Probe Begins

TOKYO AP -- Aviation experts from four nations began intensive investigations today in the wake of three successive airline disasters in the Tokyo area that killed 321 persons.

Japanese officials also launched urgent studies of aviation safety in Japan and renewed calls for a new airport.

Two crashes Saturday and Sunday killed 98 Americans, including 75 in a tour group aboard a British Overseas Airways Corp. Boeing 707 bound for Hong Kong.

Heavy rains on the lower slopes of Mt. Fuji, site of the BOAC crash Saturday that killed all 124 aboard, hampered studies being made of the twisted wreckage.

Photographs of the BOAC jet which spun out of a clear sky showed the plane began disintegrating while falling. Smoke trailed from the full length of both wings.

Pieces of the Canadian Pacific Airlines Douglas DC8 jet that crashed Friday in a fog at the Tokyo airport were being picked up by more experts. That crash killed 64 of the 72 persons aboard.

On Feb. 4 a Boeing 727 jet operated by All Nippon Airways crashed in Tokyo harbor and killed all 133 persons aboard. It was the worst crash involving a single plane.

Space Rescues Are Feasible

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Man must learn how to rescue orbiting astronauts stranded in a disabled spaceship because "it is a problem we all know will one day confront us," a recovery force expert said today.

"Space rescue is entirely feasible and well within the known state of the art," said Col. Emil G. Beaudry, vice commander of the Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Service at Orlando, Fla.

In a technical paper presented during the opening day of the Third Annual Space Congress, Beaudry said one analyst concluded there is a 62 per cent probability of at least seven emergency situations in space involving 22 men in the next 20 years and a 58 per cent probability of two or three emergencies within 10 years.

He observed the vast amount of effort project officials now take to insure astronauts' safety before they are launched and said "rescue in space is but the logical extension of this traditional humanitarian role."

"There is no reason today — or certainly in the reasonably near future — why an operational rescue spacecraft could not be ready and standing by in the event of distress or tragedy during manned flights," Beaudry said.

"For example, a launch vehicle such as the Titan 3 with its great weight-lifting capability and mission versatility could easily carry a rescue crew, medical facilities and technicians aloft to assist in any way required."

In a related paper, an engineer said the ability to rendezvous with another object in space — as astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott plan to do March 15 — "opens up a myriad of possibilities," including rescue.

A space ship which runs out of gas can be refueled by a "orbiting tanker," said M. H. Goodkind of Martin Co.'s Canaveral Division. Or a maintenance station in space could glide over to repair a disabled vehicle, and crews and supplies could be transferred to and from a manned orbiting laboratory.

This evaluation of Lt. Gen. Hoang Van Thai has been made for Washington officials after painstaking exploration of the Chinese-trained general's background.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Thai, former assistant chief of the North Vietnamese Joint General Staff, infiltrated into South Viet Nam in early 1964 "and reportedly is the current commander of the Viet Cong armed forces."

McNamara also said a second North Vietnamese lieutenant general named Luong also was a 1964 infiltrator into South Viet Nam.

Luong may be in charge of political affairs for the highest Communist headquarters in South Viet Nam, McNamara said.

Four Injured In Collision

James Franklin, 28, Troup, Tex., a passenger in a 1961 tractor-trailer, today remained in a critical condition from head injuries received in a two-truck crash Saturday at 5:45 a.m. near Old Appleton, on highway 61.

He was one of four persons injured, when the tractor-trailer, driven by Bill Norman, 35, Troup, traveling south, was involved in the collision. A 1964 Ford truck, driven by James Motton, 27, Caruthersville, northbound, slid sideways on the icy pavement into the other vehicle, the state patrol reported.

Others injured were Norman, head and arm injury; Tommy Gaston, 30, Caruthersville, shoulder and hip injuries, and Motton, minor injuries.

All were taken to the Perry County Hospital in Perryville. Saturday at 2:15 p.m. on highway 61, two miles east of Steele, Anna Deuser, 38, Lion, Miss., passenger in one car involved in a two-car collision received injuries to her arm and was taken to a Hayti hospital.

She was riding in a 1961 Falcon, driven by Alma Tiewehaus, 50, Lion, when a 1959 Ford, driven by A. J. Brown, 21, Caruthersville, failed to stop at a sign, collided with the car. A 1964 Buick, driven by Dianne Cole, 21, Maplewood, pulled in front of a 1958 Chevrolet, driven by Herbert Ragdsdale, 56, Matthews, Saturday at 3 p.m. on route H, in Matthews, and collided. Neither driver was injured.

Sunday at 2:45 p.m. on the Sandy road in Morley, a 1963 Ford, driven by Donald McCarty, 18, Chaffee, and a 1963 Plymouth, driven by Bennie Walker, 63, Bertrand, collided at an intersection. Neither driver was injured.

There was a staggering loss in cattle and sheep -- perhaps running in the millions of dollars. In both states, work crews pushed around the clock to open up roads clogged with drifts up to 25 feet deep.

Blast Ruins Clubhouse

SAN FRANCISCO AP -- Police Inspector Robert McClellan says the explosion which shattered the national headquarters of the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs may have been a dynamite charge -- as much as 40 pounds of it.

The blast Sunday ripped open the inside of the club's ramshackle two-story building, spraying glass and wood fragments on neighboring buildings and littering the street. There were no reported injuries.

"We have no definite leads or suspects," said McClellan. He said the blast may have been a dynamite charge placed under the front porch of the building, located in a run-down residential section several blocks from the city's Civic Center.

The explosion came less than 48 hours after the Justice Department moved to require the DuBois Clubs to register as a Communist front organization.

Hollenbecks Given Tickets

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., AP -- Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hollenbeck of Cape Girardeau, who were aboard the British jetliner that crashed Saturday on the slopes of Mt. Fuji in Japan, were making an Asian tour on tickets given to them by a close friend.

Charles N. Harris, a Cape Girardeau banker and owner of a truck and trailer firm, won the tour trip sponsored by the Thermo King Corp. of Minneapolis, Minn. He said he and his wife decided two months ago not to make the trip because their daughter was expecting a baby.

"We thought we'd give the tickets to the Hollenbecks because they were very good friends, they had no children and they loved to make trips," Harris said.

Hollenbeck, a businessman, was a pilot, as is Harris. They had been friends 35 years.

Woman Denies Marriage Plans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blonde Candace Mossler set out today, as she put it, to mother a brood of adored children and to "pick up the pieces" of a $33-million business.

She was asked in the presence of her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, following their acquisition Sunday in the 1964 slaying of her multimillionaire husband: "Mrs. Mossler, will you and Mel Powers be married?"

In a little girl voice, normal for her but tinged it seemed with a trace of vexation, Mrs. Mossler with her children be-

Weather and Special Butler File For Board Session Begins

Two more men have tossed their hats into the ring for the April 5 school board election.

Dr. Wendell Weathers, dentist, and Rev. C. D. Butler, pastor of the Murray Lane Baptist church, filed Saturday as candidates before the filing deadline with Charles D. Matthews, board secretary.

There are four candidates to fill two vacancies. Lee Austin Bowman and Dr. A. D. Martin filed earlier. Dr. Martin is a candidate to succeed himself.

L. M. Standley, president of the board, is not a candidate.

Strike Stops Five Papers

BOSTON AP -- A strike of printers and mailers has left Greater Boston's more than 2.5 million inhabitants without five of their daily newspapers.

Shut down as a result of a contract dispute were the morning and evening Globe, the morning Herald, the evening Traveler, and the Record American, which has morning and evening editions.

Locals of the International Typographical Union and the Mailers Union voted 1,266 to 56 Sunday for the strike.

The Christian Science Monitor is unaffected.

The printers and mailers demand cash raises. The publishers contend they should accept the same company-paid health-welfare and pension plan negotiated with other newspaper craft unions.

Blast Damages Wall of House

The fire department was called this morning to the Quinn Mays home on route one, to extinguish a small fire starting from a gasoline tank explosion. The blast occurred while the tank was being filled.

The explosion pushed in part of the back wall of the home, but no one was injured. Damage by fire was slight.

Building up In Missouri

NEW YORK AP -- January contracts for future construction in Missouri totaled $83,641,000, up 7 per cent from January of 1965.

The F. W. Dodge Co. reported today there was a 100 per cent increase in non-building construction in which contracts totaled $30,309,000. Non-residential, at $25,344,000, was up 5 per cent and residential, at $27,988,000, was down 30 per cent.

Fire Victims in New Quarters

MATTHEWS -- The J. R. Myers family, whose home and possessions were destroyed by fire Thursday, is now living in new quarters on the Castor Aisup farm.

The family received sufficient furniture, clothing and cash to begin housekeeping anew.

Myers and his family were brought to Sikeston today by Aisup, where they received additional winter clothing.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A budget of nearly a billion dollars and some tough political problems faced Missouri legislators today as they returned to the Capitol for their third session in 14 months.

The special session was called by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes primarily to provide money to operate the state government in the fiscal year starting July 1. But he added 20 other topics for the legislators to consider, some of them bound to stir controversy.

At the outset the two that seemed most likely to set off barrages of debate were regulation of highway billboards in order to qualify for federal funds and a "shared time" proposal that would let parochial students share instruction in special subjects.

The governor was to outline details of his proposals soon after the legislators convened at 2 p.m. and settled their routine organizational problems.

Most legislators who have commented on the special session think it will run the full constitutional limit of 60 days.

The governor is more optimistic. He thinks the work could be done in five weeks.

In a pre-session radio interview (KWOS) he said today the House Appropriations chairman, Rep. Bernard (Doc) Simcoe, D-Callaway, County, expects to send the money bills to the Senate by the end of the third week.

The Senate, meanwhile, will be working on his other recommendations and should be ready to send at least some of them to the House by that time.

Simcoe's committee expects to start its closed door calculating immediately with a goal of passing the emergency appropriations bill by next Monday.

Both House and Senate Appropriations committees cleared the decks for swift action by holding pre-session hearings.

The governor clamped down hard on requests for capital improvements and cut some of the operating requests sharply to stay within the expected income from general revenue.

He said in today's interview everyone recognizes the need for a big building program at state colleges and universities, the correctional and mental health institutions. The only question is whether it should be financed from year to year or whether the state should vote a big bond issue for a crash program.

To solve that problem he recommended the legislature set up a special House-Senate committee to study the need and feasibility of a bond issue.

Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, Senate Appropriations chairman, already is on record for setting up a long range system of building priorities before any bond issue goes before the people.

In the regular six-month session last year and in the special one-month session last fall, House redistricting was the biggest legislative bugaboo.

This time a House redistricting commission approved by the people at the Jan. 14 special election will be in session and many rural House members whose seats are threatened will be doing all they can to get districts mapped out where they might stand a chance of returning to the assembly.

Under any reapportionment plan that fits the equal population standard, urban areas stand to wind up with almost half of the 163 seats.

Mansfield Calms Some Senate Criticism of Viet Nam Course

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quiet Irishman with a velvet glove has helped calm some of the Senate criticism of President Johnson's course in Viet Nam.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, has demonstrated in the week since he returned from a recuperative vacation in Florida that soft words diminish wrath, if they do not always turn it away.

The second day after the tall, lean Montana senator climbed back in the leadership saddle, the Senate passed overwhelmingly a $4.6-billion military authorization bill that had been before it since Feb. 14 while members wrangled over Viet Nam.

Mansfield, with characteristic modesty, takes no personal credit for this. He says the members were just tired of squabbling and ready to act.

Within hours after his return, the Democratic leader helped extricate Vice President Hubert

H. Humphrey from a sticky situation brought about by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's invitation for him to testify before it on his nine-nation tour of Asia.

No vice president can afford to let a committee order him around, and Humphrey was determined not to be put on the stand at a public hearing.

Acting Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana already had traded verbal blows with Chairman J.W. Fulbright in the Foreign Relations Committee's televised hearings. Relations between them were strained.

But Mansfield prevailed on Fulbright to join with him in inviting Humphrey to sit down with senators and talk informally with them. The session turned out to be a friendly one, with nobody going away mad.

supply of patience to move the Senate toward a vote on a $415-million foreign aid authorization which includes $275 million in economic aid for Viet Nam.

The Democratic leader occupies a unique position in standing apart from the noisy Senate uproar over Viet Nam. Quietly, he had opposed the resumption of North Viet Nam bombing, thus siding with Fulbright.

For all their recent chatting at a White House party, the President and Fulbright are not what could be called chummy at this point.

In contrast, Johnson and Mansfield continue to maintain close relations. Mansfield had his reservations about steps Johnson has taken and communicated them to Johnson. But his attitude has been that "we're in this thing too deep" to carp at the President publicly.

Frank W. Van Horne Dies in Sleep

Frank W. Van Horne, 74, retired farmer, died in his sleep last night from a heart attack.

He was found this morning in bed in his apartment at 273 North Ranney, across the street from the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Huff.

He was in excellent spirits last night and had played with his young granddaughter.

Air Disasters Probe Begins

TOKYO AP -- Aviation experts from four nations began intensive investigations today in the wake of three successive airline disasters in the Tokyo area that killed 321 persons.

Japanese officials also launched urgent studies of aviation safety in Japan and renewed calls for a new airport.

Two crashes Saturday and Sunday killed 98 Americans, including 75 in a tour group

aboard a British Overseas Airways Corp. Boeing 707 bound for Hong Kong.

Heavy rains on the lower slopes of Mt. Fuji, site of the BOAC crash Saturday that killed all 124 aboard, hampered studies being made of the twisted wreckage.

Photographs of the BOAC jet which spun out of a clear sky showed the plane began disintegrating while falling. Smoke trailed from the full length of both wings.

Pieces of the Canadian Pacific Airlines Douglas DC8 jet that crashed Friday in a fog at the Tokyo airport were being picked over by more experts. That crash killed 64 of the 72 persons aboard.

On Feb. 4 a Boeing 727 jet operated by All Nippon Airways crashed in Tokyo harbor and killed all 133 persons aboard. It was the worst crash involving a single plane.

Space Rescues Are Feasible

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Man must learn how to rescue orbiting astronauts stranded in a disabled spaceship because "it is a problem we all know will one day confront us," a recovery force expert said today.

"Space rescue is entirely feasible and well within the known state of the art," said Col. Emil G. Beaudry, vice commander of the Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Service at Orlando, Fla.

In a technical paper presented during the opening day of the Third Annual Space Congress, Beaudry said one analyst concluded there is a 62 per cent probability of at least seven emergency situations in space involving 22 men in the next 20 years and a 58 per cent probability of two or three emergency situations within 10 years.

He observed the vast amount of effort project officials now take to insure astronauts' safety before they are launched and said "rescue in space is but the logical extension of this traditional humanitarian role."

"There is no reason today — or certainly in the reasonably near future — why an operational rescue spacecraft could not be ready and standing by in the event of distress or tragedy during manned flights," Beaudry said.

"For example, a launch vehicle such as the Titan 3 with its great weight-lifting capability and mission versatility could easily carry a rescue crew, medical facilities and technical aids aloft to assist in any way required."

In a related paper, an engineer said the ability to rendezvous with another object in space — as astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott plan to do March 15 — "opens up a myriad of possibilities," including rescue.

A space ship which runs out of gas can be refueled by an "orbiting tanker," said M.H. Goodkind of Martin Co.'s Canaveral Division. Or a maintenance station in space could glide over to repair a disabled vehicle, and crews and supplies could be transferred to and from a manned orbiting laboratory.

There was a staggering loss in cattle and sheep -- perhaps running in the millions of dollars. In both states, work crews pushed around the clock to open up roads clogged with drifts up to 25 feet deep.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Monday, March 7, 1901 - Inauguration of rhinoceros service between Durban and Cairo.

One of the numerous things that Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has asked of legislators, who assembled today in special session, is to comply with the new federal highway beautification law.

The state legislature in the past has been indifferent to any reasonable requirement for keeping the natural beauty of the landscape as viewed from highways.

Now is the time for this attitude of indifference, not confined unfortunately to Missouri legislators, to end.

The apathy is due largely to the effectiveness of the billboard lobby and other selfish interests, small business operators, motels and roadside establishments, who fear that the absence of blight along the highway will cause them financial loss.

A great many of these fears appear to be unjustified. The elimination of billboards and roadside signs never has been sought--only control. But if given a choice between spoiling the landscape and ruining the environment of millions of dollars spent on highway improvements and causing selfish, special interests a financial loss, legislators should muster the courage--if they still have any--and vote in favor of highway beautification. Missouri needs it and so does the country.

Missouri will be penalized 10 per cent of its federal aid funds on highways if it does not comply with the new highway beautification law.

So if the legislature continues to be smug, the taxpayers will be penalized because the legislators continued to bend a friendly, responsive ear toward the entreaties of the special interests.

The taxpayers deserve a better break.

In 12-county district 10 of the state highway department, headquartered in Sikeston, there are 5,177 road signs and 179 salvage and junk yards, which fall into the areas of control as defined by federal law--within 660 feet from the right-of-way for the signs and within 1,000 feet for the junkyards.

Missouri has another reason for complying. The tourist business in the state is brisk and much sought after. A great deal of money and effort are being spent annually to maintain and to increase it.

If Missouri is going to keep the tourists coming in the future and meet the competition from other states, it cannot continue to thumb its nose at them with a polyglot assortment of ragtag roadside signs of every size, description and condition and of rusting carcasses of stripped automobiles and trucks heaped along the roadside amidst weeds.

The tourist will not spend his money for these irritations to the eye or to inspect an increasingly ugly American landscape.

Missouri legislators must put the general welfare of the state and its citizens above the persuasion of selfish and self seeking interests, which are willing to wreck the appearance of the landscape and cause the loss of millions of dollars in order to make a buck or two.

Bill Lewis complains that everything he likes is either illegal, immoral or fattening, or even married.

PATIENCE IS TRULY A GIFT OF GOD

Never more was it in evidence than Tuesday night at the Sikeston army.

The dinner honoring Joel Montgomery brought out a tremendous crowd, one that overtaxed the capacity of the army.

What would you do if you invited 1,000 guests and 1,500 arrived at feeding time?

That's what happened.

The turnout should make the Joel Montgomery family feel mighty proud that his contribution to Sikeston's economy and charitable institutions were recognized and acknowledged.

It also proved one thing more than the esteem Joel is held in by Sikeston and Southeast Missouri folks.

It proved the need for a civic center large enough and equipped to handle a large and enthusiastic crowd.

Frank Armstrong and his crew of helpers did a fine job of serving the crowd.

The crowd showed wonderful patience with the delay.

The overflow crowd was served at the Rustic Rock Inn and the El Capri dining room.

A fine evening.

The American Meat Institute reports that the word "barbecue" comes from the Spanish word "barbacoa". This is the name natives of the West Indies gave to the wooden framework they use in grilling smoked meat and fish.

French-Canadians borrowed the word "barboka" from the western Indians. French explorers of the Mississippi Valley twisted it into the modern "barbecue".

The 16-year-olds in Webster Groves, an upper middle-class St. Louis suburban community, are objects both of envy and of pity.

Their lives may be in many ways safe and secure but they aren't dynamic.

A survey disclosed that the teenagers were serious and hard working youngsters, morally straight, but desiring nothing more than to continue to live in the Webster Groves environment in which they have lived so comfortably.

Some of them were shocked at what they had seen in brief excursions outside suburbia.

In one sense the teenagers of Webster Groves have things tougher than their parents. They must study hard. The scholastic competition is fierce. Most of the students have an unusual drive to excel scholastically.

Since many of them hope to be able to maintain the comparatively high standard of living of their parents, this drive is necessary.

With taxation of all kinds growing, greater inroads being made into the system of limited capitalism, the steady march toward socialism, the heavy penalties on thrift and self reliance, the disposition to take from one and give to another, the youngsters must work twice as hard as their parents to stay even in tomorrow's society.

The predicament that Webster Groves' teenagers find themselves in is in many ways understandable.

It is the ambition of parents everywhere to give their children a better life and to make life easier for them than they themselves experienced. The high caliber of the Webster Groves schools is one manifestation of this aspiration.

While this is a parental ambition, is laudable in many respects, it creates about as many problems as it solves.

The parents' early lives involved more personal sacrifice and struggle except for the educational aspect.

These experiences built character, developed enterprise and strength that is lacking to some extent in today's more sheltered generation of youngsters.

But the parents did not have such a tough time in school.

Their school days were more relaxed and pleasant.

The youngsters of Webster Groves are experiencing in a real sense the good life--the fruition of the American dream. They are not idealistic or bold opportunists but extremely materialistic.

They want nothing more than to continue the affluent life their parents have given them--"a big house, two cars and a lot of money." They are thinking of security not opportunity.

Ordinarily the affluent life sounds appealing but there's something depressing about a community of young people whose aspirations hinge so much on maintaining the status quo.

Bob Lambert says: "When opportunity knocks these days, it's likely to be the postman with a notice from your Selective Service Board."

FUNNY, BUT TRUE

One of the speakers addressing newspaper advertising executives last week provided a humorous but classic example of how to impress a merchant or businessman on the power and influence of newspapers. Ask the man to imagine, he said, that the had been arrested on Main Street for being drunk and disorderly with a lady other than his wife. Then ask him if he would rather have a picture of the event appear for five seconds on a local television channel or on the front page of his local newspaper.

Ridiculous? But the obvious answer tells it all.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

WASHINGTON -- The Senate Foreign Relations committee, meeting behind closed doors last week, debated whether to throw Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., off the committee.

Basis for the debate was the fact that Dodd had conspired with Gen. Julius Klein, a registered agent for West German interests, during the Senate committee's investigation of Klein in 1964. At that time Dodd did not reveal to his own committee the full facts regarding his relationship with Klein.

Sen. Fulbright cited precedents dating back to the Civil War when members of the Senate committees were ousted, but the committee finally decided that since Dodd was under investigation by the Senate Ethics committee, the Foreign Relations committee would not move against him for the time being.

Note: The Senate Ethics committee, headed by John Stennis, D-Miss., has started to turn the investigation around to a probe of where Jack Anderson got the damning documents regarding Dodd's extracurricular activities. This switch in investigative tactics follows the usual Senate line of protecting the sanctity of the "club," the line followed regarding Senators involved in the Bobby Baker case.

SECRET CABLEGRAM

The Senate Foreign Relations committee might want to investigate further the operation of Sen. Dodd in the Congo in 1961 when he acted in cooperation with another foreign agent, Michel Struelens.

Struelens represented the break-away Province of Katanga and was at that time bent on upsetting the Kennedy policy of supporting President Aduola and trying to keep the Congo together. Foreign agent Struelens was working with break-away President Tshombe of Katanga and Sen. Dodd was helping him.

A secret cablegram which Struelens sent to Tshombe on December 17, 1961, at the height of the Katanga controversy, tells part of the story. I can supply the Senate committee with a copy. The important parts read: "United States excited about Katanga affair. Dodd will make senatorial declaration Monday and first debate Senate."

"Violent criticism by Congress of state department policy can be expected."

"Very important. President (Tshombe) ask if at meeting with Aduola, Dodd be present, for he can say U. S. Ambassador Leopoldville (Edward Gullion) took position in conflict which is not neutral but in favor of Aduola."

"Do not attack Gullion head on, but make understand he is no longer neutral after anti-Tshombe position in radio and TV broadcasts in United States...."

"Dodd asks to be present if Gullion should negotiate cease fire...."

This is a complicated cablegram dealing with complicated African politics. But it is not complicated when it boils down to the position of a senator and whether or not he represents the United States or a foreign government opposed by the United States.

COMPETENT SENATOR

Dodd was an able prosecutor at the Nuremberg Trials, conducted excellent hearings on juvenile delinquency, has a good voting record on most domestic issues. He has also been campaigning to prevent interstate traffic in guns such as that which killed President Kennedy.

The senator from Connecticut, therefore, is fully competent to know when he is in violation of senate ethics or of the foreign agents registration act, or the Logan act, which bars an individual from conducting foreign relations on behalf of the United States. In the Katanga affair he may have been in violation of all three.

In 1961, President Kennedy had taken a firm position that the Congo must be unified and that the United States would support President Aduola for unification. Kennedy believed that Katanga, the largest copper-cobalt producer in the world with an $85 million a days, a Government-financed study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, has revealed that the leading aspirin is as gentle to the stomach as the buffered product, and even as gentle as a sugar pill, and that this aspirin is unsurpassed in onset, duration and degree of pain relief.

Now, we're not taking sides in the fierce competition among the leading painkillers. The interesting thing to us is that about 90 per cent of all pain relievers available without prescription are either straight aspirin or contain aspirin as their principal ingredient. Aspirin itself is the most widely used, and therefore most thoroughly tested, medicinal preparation in the world. Americans last year took about 16 billion straight aspirin tablets, or 44 million a day. Just recently the leading aspirin maker produced its 100 billionth tablet.

Time Magazine, in a recent article, summed it up pretty well when it said: "By and large, aspirin is good for what ails you."

Specifications -- MADGE -- "Why don't you get married?" MARGE -- "I can't find the right man. He has to be smart enough to make a lot of money, but stupid enough to give most of it to me."

FOREDOOMED TO FAILURE

The effort of a farm organization to force up livestock prices by withholding the animals from market was short lived. That was inevitable. For the price of livestock is determined by basic economic laws that continue to operate despite all efforts to tamper with them.

Moreover, as the American Meat Institute accurately observes, actions of that nature by consumers on one day is not wanted as an addition to their normal consumption on a subsequent day. Consequently, the lost demand for meat during the withholding period does not accumulate for a later time when the livestock that are held back eventually must move to market. Accordingly, any price increase that may occur during a withholding will not equal the price decrease that later will take place."

Also, the livestock held back from market must be fed, thus increasing the producer's costs and investment. Then, to further compound the problem, livestock held beyond the proper marketing time tends to become overweight, overfurnished and wasteful, and these faults add up to a loss in value.

The purpose of the livestock "strike" was to force packers to agree to artificially inflated

prices through a fee system. According to the Institute, the bill for this would be more than $1.1 billion -- "... many times the present total costs of marketing the nation's livestock." One can imagine the reaction of the nation's consumers.

This foredoomed effort is worth remembering as an example of the folly of attempting to repeal the natural law of supply and demand in a free market country.

That without your consent, it's impossible for you to be a failure.

WASHINGTON -- The Senate Foreign Relations committee, meeting behind closed doors last week, debated whether to throw Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., off the committee.

Basis for the debate was the fact that Dodd had conspired with Gen. Julius Klein, a registered agent for West German interests, during the Senate committee's investigation of Klein in 1964. At that time Dodd did not reveal to his own committee the full facts regarding his relationship with Klein.

Sen. Fulbright cited precedents dating back to the Civil War when members of the Senate committees were ousted, but the committee finally decided that since Dodd was under investigation by the Senate Ethics committee, the Foreign Relations committee would not move against him for the time being.

Note: The Senate Ethics committee, headed by John Stennis, D-Miss., has started to turn the investigation around to a probe of where Jack Anderson got the damning documents regarding Dodd's extracurricular activities. This switch in investigative tactics follows the usual Senate line of protecting the sanctity of the "club," the line followed regarding Senators involved in the Bobby Baker case.

SECRET CABLEGRAM

The Senate Foreign Relations committee might want to investigate further the operation of Sen. Dodd in the Congo in 1961 when he acted in cooperation with another foreign agent, Michel Struelens.

Struelens represented the break-away Province of Katanga and was at that time bent on upsetting the Kennedy policy of supporting President Aduola and trying to keep the Congo together. Foreign agent Struelens was working with break-away President Tshombe of Katanga and Sen. Dodd was helping him.

A secret cablegram which Struelens sent to Tshombe on December 17, 1961, at the height of the Katanga controversy, tells part of the story. I can supply the Senate committee with a copy. The important parts read: "United States excited about Katanga affair. Dodd will make senatorial declaration Monday and first debate Senate."

"Violent criticism by Congress of state department policy can be expected."

"Very important. President (Tshombe) ask if at meeting with Aduola, Dodd be present, for he can say U. S. Ambassador Leopoldville (Edward Gullion) took position in conflict which is not neutral but in favor of Aduola."

"Do not attack Gullion head on, but make understand he is no longer neutral after anti-Tshombe position in radio and TV broadcasts in United States...."

"Dodd asks to be present if Gullion should negotiate cease fire...."

This is a complicated cablegram dealing with complicated African politics. But it is not complicated when it boils down to the position of a senator and whether or not he represents the United States or a foreign government opposed by the United States.

FOREDOOMED TO FAILURE

The effort of a farm organization to force up livestock prices by withholding the animals from market was short lived. That was inevitable. For the price of livestock is determined by basic economic laws that continue to operate despite all efforts to tamper with them.

Moreover, as the American Meat Institute accurately observes, actions of that nature by consumers on one day is not wanted as an addition to their normal consumption on a subsequent day. Consequently, the lost demand for meat during the withholding period does not accumulate for a later time when the livestock that are held back eventually must move to market. Accordingly, any price increase that may occur during a withholding will not equal the price decrease that later will take place."

Also, the livestock held back from market must be fed, thus increasing the producer's costs and investment. Then, to further compound the problem, livestock held beyond the proper marketing time tends to become overweight, overfurnished and wasteful, and these faults add up to a loss in value.

The purpose of the livestock "strike" was to force packers to agree to artificially inflated

prices through a fee system. According to the Institute, the bill for this would be more than $1.1 billion -- "... many times the present total costs of marketing the nation's livestock." One can imagine the reaction of the nation's consumers.

This foredoomed effort is worth remembering as an example of the folly of attempting to repeal the natural law of supply and demand in a free market country.

The Daily Sikeston Standard

C. L. BLANTON, Jr., Managing Editor, Entered at the Postoffice of Sikeston, Scott County, Missouri as Second Class Mail Matter according to Act of Congress March 3, 1879, Saturday, February 4th, 1960.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Monday, March 7, 1961 - Inauguration of rhinoceros service between Durban and Cairo.

One of the numerous things that Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has asked of legislators, who assembled today in special session, is to comply with the new federal highway beautification law. The state legislature in the past has been indifferent to any reasonable requirement for keeping the natural beauty of the landscape as viewed from highways.

Now is the time for this attitude of indifference, not confined unfortunately to Missouri legislators, to end.

The apathy is due largely to the effectiveness of the billboard lobby and other selfish interests, small business operators, motels and roadside establishments, who fear that the absence of blight along the highway will cause them financial loss.

A great many of these fears appear to be unjustified. The elimination of billboards and roadside signs never has been sought--only control. But if given a choice between spoiling the landscape and ruining the environment of millions of dollars spent on highway improvements and causing selfish, special interests a financial loss, legislators should muster the courage--if they still have any--and vote in favor of highway beautification. Missouri needs it and so does the country.

Missouri will be penalized 10 per cent of its federal aid funds on highways if it does not comply with the new highway beautification law.

So if the legislature continues to be smug, the taxpayers will be penalized because the legislators continued to bend a friendly, responsive ear toward the entreaties of the special interests.

The taxpayers deserve a better break.

In 12-county district 10 of the state highway department, headquartered in Sikeston, there are 5,177 road signs and 179 salvage and junk yards, which fall into the areas of control as defined by federal law--within 660 feet from the right-of-way for the signs and within 1,000 feet for the junkyards.

Missouri has another reason for complying. The tourist business in the state is brisk and much sought after. A great deal of money and effort are being spent annually to maintain and to increase it.

If Missouri is going to keep the tourists coming in the future and meet the competition from other states, it cannot continue to thumb its nose at them with a polyglot assortment of ragtag roadside signs of every size, description and condition and of rusting carcasses of stripped automobiles and trucks heaped along the roadside amidst weeds.

The tourist will not spend his money for these irritations to the eye or to inspect an increasingly ugly American landscape.

Missouri legislators must put the general welfare of the state and its citizens above the persuasion of selfish and self seeking interests, which are willing to wreck the appearance of the landscape and cause the loss of millions of dollars in order to make a buck or two.

Bill Lewis complains that everything he likes is either illegal, immoral or fattening, or even married.

PATIENCE IS TRULY A GIFT OF GOD

Never more was it in evidence than Tuesday night at the Sikeston army.

The dinner honoring Joel Montgomery brought out a tremendous crowd, one that overtaxed the capacity of the army.

What would you do if you invited 1,000 guests and 1,500 arrived at feeding time?

That's what happened.

The turnout should make the Joel Montgomery family feel mighty proud that his contribution to Sikeston's economy and charitable institutions were recognized and acknowledged.

It also proved one thing more than the esteem Joel is held in by Sikeston and Southeast Missouri folks.

It proved the need for a civic center large enough and equipped to handle a large and enthusiastic crowd.

Frank Armstrong and his crew of helpers did a fine job of serving the crowd.

The crowd showed wonderful patience with the delay.

The overflow crowd was served at the Rustic Rock Inn and the El Capri dining room. A fine evening.

The American Meat Institute reports that the word "barbecue" comes from the Spanish word "barbacoa". This is the name natives of the West Indies gave to the wooden framework they use in grilling smoked meat and fish. French-Canadians borrowed the word "barboka" from the western Indians. French explorers of the Mississippi Valley twisted it into the modern "barbecue".

The 16-year-olds in Webster Groves, an upper middle-class St. Louis suburban community, are objects both of envy and of pity.

Their lives may be in many ways safe and secure but they aren't dynamic.

A survey disclosed that the teenagers were serious and hard working youngsters, morally straight, but desiring nothing more than to continue to live in the Webster Groves environment in which they have lived so comfortably.

Some of them were shocked at what they had seen in brief excursions outside suburbia.

In one sense the teenagers of Webster Groves have things tougher than their parents. They must study hard. The scholastic competition is fierce. Most of the students have an unusual drive to excel scholastically.

Since many of them hope to be able to maintain the comparatively high standard of living of their parents, this drive is necessary.

With taxation of all kinds growing, greater inroads being made into the system of limited capitalism, the steady march toward socialism, the heavy penalties on thrift and self reliance, the disposition to take from one and give to another, the youngsters must work twice as hard as their parents to stay even in tomorrow's society.

The predicament that Webster Groves' teenagers find themselves in is in many ways understandable.

It is the ambition of parents everywhere to give their children a better life and to make life easier for them than they themselves experienced. The high caliber of the Webster Groves schools is one manifestation of this aspiration.

While this is a parental ambition, is laudable in many respects, it creates about as many problems as it solves.

The parents' early lives involved more personal sacrifice and struggle except for the educational aspect.

These experiences built character, developed enterprise and strength that is lacking to some extent in today's more sheltered generation of youngsters.

But the parents did not have such a tough time in school.

Their school days were more relaxed and pleasant.

They acquired their ulcers after student days not during them.

The youngsters of Webster Groves are experiencing in a real sense the good life--the fruition of the American dream. They are not idealistic or bold opportunists but extremely materialistic.

They want nothing more than to continue the affluent life their parents have given them--"a big house, two cars and a lot of money." They are thinking of security not opportunity.

Ordinarily the affluent life sounds appealing but there's something depressing about a community of young people whose aspirations hinge so much on maintaining the status quo.

Bob Lambert says: "When opportunity knocks these days, it's likely to be the postman with a notice from your Selective Service Board."

FUNNY, BUT TRUE

One of the speakers addressing newspaper advertising executives last week provided a humorous but classic example of how to impress a merchant or businessman on the power and influence of newspapers. Ask the man to imagine, he said, that the had been arrested on Main Street for being drunk and disorderly with a lady other than his wife. Then ask him if he would rather have a picture of the event appear for five seconds on a local television channel or on the front page of his local newspaper.

Ridiculous? But the obvious answer tells it all.

Now, we're not taking sides in the fierce competition among the leading pain killers. The interesting thing to us is that about 90 per cent of all pain relievers available without prescription are either straight aspirin or contain aspirin as their principal ingredient. Aspirin itself is the most widely used, and therefore most thoroughly tested, medicinal preparation in the world. Americans last year took about 16 billion straight aspirin tablets, or 44 million a day. Just recently the leading aspirin maker produced its 100 billionth tablet.

TRY TO REMEMBER--

This is the time when a child's best friend is not a dog or a bike but a sled and the domain of all adventure centers on one thing--a hill, snow-covered, of course.

It need not even be a hill, really. Any slope will do, just so it has enough slippery stuff on it to sustain a face-flinging slide on runner or ski or perhaps that new invention, the child-sized saucer of plastic or tin.

In the old days, before the automobile became omnipresent, it might have been one of the steeper city streets, barricaded with wooded horses and blackened at the bottom with ashes that raised sparks when a sled swooshed into them. Now, in this day of supervised and commercialized recreation, it is more likely to be a public or private park, except in the country where the hills still belong to the kids.

But wherever or however, the experience is the same for each new generation, to whom even the most fitful snowfall is a thrilling promise and cause for impatient anticipation. (Time enough for them in later years to think of it only as a threat of treacherous driving, sagging gutters and high heating bills.)

True, adults go in for winter sports and catering to them is a growing business. But it isn't the same.

Snow is really meant for the young, and those of them so unfortunate as to live in warmer climates can only dream of what they're missing.

A kid and a sled and a hill. What else is winter for?

can't help a commercial ship except to unload us and they have their own problems."

Grimly, Barisic told of the blood pressure - inducing experience of three ship captains. The S. S. Barisina tried to get a ship agent in Cam Ranh Bay. Her captain sent 16 messages, says Barisic, to the shipping agent. The messages were ignored. The ship lay there 60 days.

And there is the S. S. American Builder, a U. S. Lines' freighter. It lay unloaded in Saigon for 15 days -- because it could not raise a shipping agent.

There is the fantastic story of Capt. Beck's S. S. Louise Lykes. He hove her into Da Nang in mid-December. For four futile days he attempted to contact his shipping agent.

At the end of the fourth day the Vietnamese citizen casually came aboard. No, there was little he could do to help it unload.

So Capt. Beck pulled out, dumped part of his fuel to lighten his load so he could get into a channel for Saigon.

When he finally arrived with his load of rice and military equipment, he could now get a customs division permit to unload the materiel the U. S. was contributing to the Vietnamese.

Finally, days later, he did get this bit of paper.

And when the cargo finally is unloaded, much of it is stolen. Barisic said too much of the shipments clog the docks because of a shortage of barges, seagoing tugs, harbor tugs, cranes, motorized barges, and the "sea mules" of World War II. But most important is the need for big steel containers weighing 5 to 10 tons. Barisic opines it would be hard to crank these and loot their contents -- or lug them off intact.

What's the solution?

Barisic says there must be some centralized control. It must not be in Vietnamese hands. Expert American shipping agents who can meet a freighter and get it unloaded, revitalized and homebound swiftly are needed in all South Vietnamese ports.

"I talked to Nick Johnson (U. S. Maritime Administrator) about all this," said Barisic. "He said we don't move that fast. Well, if they continue puzzlingfooting we'll tie up ships along the American waterfront just to tell the country what's happening to Saigon. That'll get Nick moving."

It might, so would a hard-hitting Congressional probe.

Mr. Barisic spent three weeks recently in Viet Nam attempting to help hundreds of merchant seamen on idling freighters in those waters. He has no complaint now against the military.

"They are all Vietnamese citizens and they have given almost no service," Barisic told this columnist the other day.

If there is no agent to solve the ship's problems and it can't get unloaded, it just lies there. And brother, you just try to get one of those agents. He is not in his office. Or he left a week ago. Or he is asleep. So in disgust many of our ships turn to the military but they really

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

U. S. Labor Leaders Report Vietnamese Authorities Deliberately Stalling Flow of American Equipment and Food.

New York: -- Confidential reports from skilled labor leaders, who flew to Saigon to help the South Vietnamese unchoke that port, disclose that the South Vietnamese don't seem to be terribly interested in saving themselves.

In fact, the plug in the bottleneck, the bone in the throat, the "thing" in the craw of American waterfront specialists, is the Saigon maritime bureaucracy.

Vietnamese, official and civilian, who control the unloading of rice and some military equipment, are in no hurry. Frequently they can't be found for days. They often refuse to work Saturday and Sunday. They sista. They hold up custom permits -- though much of the food and supplies is being donated gratis by America.

Thus American freighters, low in the water with vital cargo, have lain idle anywhere from 10 to 60 days for want of routine permission to unload.

The worst of the culprits are the Vietnamese shipping agents. Without such an agent in any port a ship can be virtually paralyzed. He is the representative hired by the ship owner to "nurse" the vessel in a foreign port.

He secures a harbor pilot, gets the clearance papers, the unloading permit, fills in the necessary, additional crew men, provides for repairs and medical attention, gets new provisions and fresh water and picks up the ship's mail for the news-hungry seamen.

Judging from one survey made by the knowledgeable and utterly professional Mel Barisic, National Maritime Union vice president, Vietnamese shipping agents are more elusive than the Scarlet Pimpernel.

Mr. Barisic spent three weeks recently in Viet Nam attempting to help hundreds of merchant seamen on idling freighters in those waters. He has no complaint now against the military.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- The Senate Foreign Relations committee, meeting behind closed doors last week, debated whether to throw Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., off the committee.

Basis for the debate was the fact that Dodd had conspired with Gen. Julius Klein, a registered agent for West German interests, during the Senate committee's investigation of Klein in 1964. At that time Dodd did not reveal to his own committee the full facts regarding his relationship with Klein.

Sen. Fulbright cited precedents dating back to the Civil War when members of the Senate committees were ousted, but the committee finally decided that since Dodd was under investigation by the Senate Ethics committee, the Foreign Relations committee would not move against him for the time being.

Note: The Senate Ethics committee, headed by John Stennis, D-Miss., has started to turn the investigation around to a probe of where Jack Anderson got the damning documents regarding Dodd's extracurricular activities. This switch in investigative tactics follows the usual Senate line of protecting the sanctity of the "club," the line followed regarding senators involved in the Bobby Baker case.

SECRET CABLEGRAM

The Senate Foreign Relations committee might want to investigate further the operation of Sen. Dodd in the Congo in 1961 when he acted in cooperation with another foreign agent, Michel Struelens.

Struelens represented the break-away Province of Katanga and was at that time bent on upsetting the Kennedy policy of supporting President Adoula and trying to keep the Congo together. Foreign agent Struelens was working with break-away President Tshombe of Katanga and Sen. Dodd was helping him.

A secret cablegram which Struelens sent to Tshombe on December 17, 1961, at the height of the Katanga controversy, tells part of the story. I can supply the Senate committee with a copy. The important parts read:

"United States excited about Katanga affair. Dodd will make senatorial declaration Monday and first debates Senate."

"Violent criticism by Congress of state department policy can be expected."

"Very important President (Tshombe) ask if at meeting with Adoula, Dodd be present, for he can say U. S. Ambassador Leopoldville (Edward Gullion) took position in conflict which is not neutral but in favor of Adoula."

"Do not attack Gullion head on, but make understand he is no longer neutral after anti-Tshombe position in radio and TV broadcasts in United States."

"Dodd asks to be present if Gullion should negotiate cease fire."

This is a complicated cablegram dealing with complicated African politics. But it is not complicated when it boils down to the position of a senator and whether or not he represents the United States or a foreign government opposed by the United States.

American Legion Auxiliary Meets

Henry Meldrum Unit No. 114, American Legion Auxiliary, met Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion Hall with the president, Mrs. Fred Tope, Jr., presiding. Four officers answered roll call.

The president reported she had received more letters requesting the Daily Standard for service men in Viet Nam which had come through "Operation Home Town Papers."

Mrs. J. S. Wallace, Americanism chairman, reported there were 13 essays from the local schools on the Americanism contest and essays are being judged. The best ones will be sent to 14th District chairman.

It was reported by the child welfare chairman, Mrs. H. G. Cathey, that $25 worth of clothing had been distributed.

Girls State chairman reported that 10 pledges had been sent to state headquarters. If all are accepted, 10 girls will have the privilege of attending the 25th session of Girls State from June 19 through June 26.

It was announced that the 14th District meeting held in Cape Girardeau on Feb. 6 was well attended. The District president has as her project this year purchasing a record player for the Veterans Hospital, Poplar Bluff, which will play book length records for those patients who cannot, for physical or visual reasons, read or, can not hold a book to read.

At the District meeting, Mrs. Grover Greer, hospital representative, told of the 47 men in the Veterans Administration Hospital Nursing Home and asked units to send aprons for the men to give their wives or other relative on Mother's Day, May 8. The aprons must be in the hands of Mrs. Greer not later than May 1.

Missionary to Speak Wednesday

The Rev. Robert H. Camenisch will be the guest speaker at a family night supper at the Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m.

In his nine years of service in Ceres, Golas, Brazil, for the Presbyterian Church U. S., Mr. Camenisch has planned and built an average of two churches a year, a school campus with four major buildings and some private homes for the West Brazil Mission. At one time he and another missionary working together were constructing 20 buildings. He directed a vast evangelistic program in the Brazilian state of Golas, which involved serving as pastor of nine churches while directing the activities of 17 Sunday schools. He helped teach farmers farm management and methods to improve their crops and livestock.

Since 1963, his work has focused on the responsibility of planning and spending the West Brazil Mission's portion of the 1963 Birthday Offering of Presbyterian U. S. church women. This offering was tremendous in its influence on building the frontier.

Working along the BR-14 highway which links the cities of Brasilia and Belem, Mr. Camenisch supervises the work of eight Brazilian laymen in rapidly developing pioneer towns. By flying the mission's plane "Wings of Faith," Mr. Camenisch is able to cover the vast territory effectively. He frequently flies doctors into these areas saving many lives.

The Rev. Camenisch is well equipped for the tough and exacting work he is doing. He is a former Marine combat pilot, World War II, a trained agronomist and former teacher of agriculture in Lincoln county, Kentucky, and a minister with his degree from Louisville Presbyterian Seminary. He holds a degree from the University of Kentucky, Lexington, and is a native of Stanford, Kentucky.

Mr. Camenisch, who went to the field in 1954, is home on his second furlough. He and his family are living in Stanford, Kentucky, during their furlough year. They have six children, five boys and a girl. They expect to return to Brazil this year.

VICE MAYOR TAYLOR Noles signs a proclamation designating March 6 through 12 Girl Scout Week. Mrs. Joe Dye, neighborhood Senior, Cadette and Junior chairman, watches.

Girl Scout Week Being Observed in Sikeston

The Honorable Taylor Noles, vice mayor of Sikeston, has proclaimed March 6 through 12 Girl Scout Week in Sikeston.

Following the proclamation ceremony, Mrs. Joe Dye, neighborhood chairman, presented Vice Mayor Noles with a promissory note indicating a wide variety of services that the 527 Girl Scouts of Sikeston have promised to provide throughout the community this year.

The vice mayor's proclamation paid tribute to the Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. on its 54th anniversary and hailed the "constancy of purpose" which has guided the lives of more than 22 million members since the organization's founding on March 12, 1912.

Noles also highlighted the promise of service which Girl Scouts throughout the nation have made to fulfill the organization's current theme, "Girl Scouting -- A Promise in Action."

Vice Mayor Noles called upon all citizens of Sikeston to give Girl Scouts their "continued interest, cooperation and support so that increasing numbers of girls may benefit from a program that so inspires that such promises as their promise of service can be freely and with whole heart given."

Senior Citizens Club Has Meeting

CANALOU -- Mrs. Beulah Peterson, chairman of the Senior Citizens' Club, called a meeting Friday, Feb. 25, in the school cafeteria so that work could be begun on plans for the Senior Citizens' Christmas party.

The party will be a community project. Anyone interested may make donations or pledges any time during the year to Mrs. Peterson or Mrs. Mattie Gruen, the treasurer. Gift - wrapped articles of $1 value and marked "man" or "woman" may be given any time to any person on the gift committee. The gifts will be stored until December.

The committees are as follows: gift committee, Mattie Gruen, Grace Hewitt, Virginia Bond, Irene Latham, Bert Moore, Elmer Gruen, Frances Abernathy and Don Hammock; program committee, Floy Gruen, Leila Evans and Barbara Fry; decorating committee, Patricia Williams, Flo

BOSTON (AP) — Philadelphia had a decided edge today in a bid to end Boston's perennial domination in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division as the smarting Celtics cried "foul" over the antics of 76er ace Wilt Chamberlain.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain, the NBA's all-time scoring king, connected for 32 points and grabbed 30 rebounds Sunday in leading the 76ers to a 119-106 victory over the Celtics and a sweep of a home-and-home weekend series.

"I've never said anything about this before, but I've got to speak about Chamberlain now," Boston's retiring coach, Red Auerbach, said. "I never have seen a man so big and strong get the protection he gets."

Auerbach, who joked at half-time after receiving a gold-fine time pass from NBA President Walter Kennedy, was in no laughing mood after his Celtics slipped one-half game behind Philadelphia in their drive for a 10th straight Eastern title and an eighth consecutive league championship.

"Chamberlain is a great basketball player, but why don't the officials call him on the three-second rule and travel-

Clay-Terrell Fight To Be In Toronto

TORONTO AP -- This Canadian city will be the site of the Cassius Clay - Ernie Terrell heavyweight title fight--probably, not definitely.

The fight -- an in-and-out-of-town affair since Clay sounded off after being reclassified 1-A in the draft -- will be held in Maple Leaf Gardens, an official of the arena said Sunday, with reservations.

"The fight will take place in our building," Harold Ballard, executive vice president of the Gardens said, "unless there is a disapproval from the Ontario government. But we have semi-approval."

And the fight promoters said they have selected a site in Canada, which they would disclose today.

"We want to let it cook overnight so we can be sure we have the site," Mike Malitz of Main Bout, Inc., which holds the closed-circuit television rights for the bout, said in New York.

Ontario Athletic Commissioner Merv McKenzie said all that remained in order to hold the fight in Toronto was for the commission to approve details of the contract. He said that although approval is not definite, he felt the details would be looked after.

He was told in a telephone conversation to Chicago that Illinois rejected the fight "because the promotion was not in proper order."

Sites which have refused the fight include New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Montreal, the Montreal suburb of Verdun, Louisville, Ky., and the State of Maine.

Clay's appeal of his reclassification from 1-Y, an exempt category, to 1-A, which makes him eligible for military service, is scheduled for a hearing March 17 in Louisville.

NCAA First Round Games To Get Under Way At Wichita

By JOE MCKNIGHT

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — High-scoring Houston and Oklahoma City will be tested by the tough man-for-man defending of second-ranked Texas Western and Colorado State in NCAA first round games tonight in the 10,400-seat Wichita Roundhouse.

Houston, 21-5, first team in NCAA major college history to average 100 points a game, will face Colorado State, 14-7, at 7 p. m. CST, with the winner meeting Oregon State's Pacific Coast champions Friday night in the Far West Regional, at Los Angeles.

Oklahoma City, 24-4, deadly shooters from long range and No. 3 nationally in scoring with a 99 point average, will face Texas Western, 23-1, a perfect record club until Saturday night at 9 p. m. The winner will face Cincinnati's Missouri Valley champs Friday night in the Midwest Regional at Texas Tech.

"I didn't want to lose but you don't correct errors when you're winning," said Don Haskins, Texas Western coach, after a last minute 74-72 defeat at Seattle lifted the pressure of a spotless record.

"We hadn't been playing well on defense the past several games and it caught up with us," said Haskins, a protege of Hank Iba.

Abe Lemmons of OCU believes in shooting as soon as you cross the center stripe. Gary Gray, a full-blooded Delaware Indian, is deadly from 40 feet.

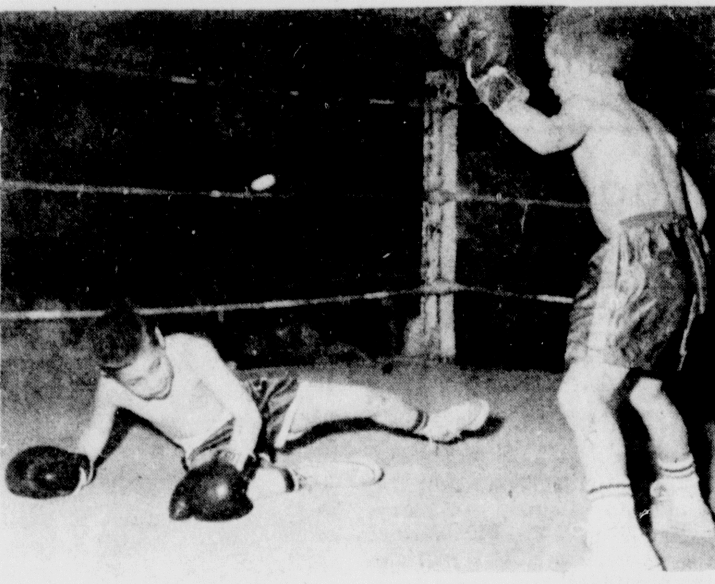

The rebound battle between James (Weasel) Ware of OCU, the No. 1 rebounder nationally, and Texas Western's rough 240-pound David (Daddy D) Lattin should be something to see.

The top man in the court, however, may be Houston's Elvin Hayes.

Hayes blocks shots like Bill Russell, is top-rated nationally by pro scouts and is a 28-point scorer. Lemmons puts it this way:

"They ought to pass that Houston bunch on to the NCAA finals. Even Guy Lewis can't foul them up. They can leave Lewis at the hotel."

Lewis, a close friend of Lemmons, said he was "very concerned" about Colorado State. The Rams are led by Lonnie Wright, a 6-2 scorer and great jumper, and 6-8 Bob Rule.

BALTIMORE, Md. -- Wide to Right captured the City of Baltimore Handicap at Pimlico and paid $4.20, $2.80 and $2.60. Double Warrent returned $8 and $5.60 and Navy Admiral, who was coupled with Wide to Right, paid $2.60 to show.

Open Tournament. The victory was worth $10,000 to Lillard. Hoffman earned $5000.

WRESTLING
CHAMPAIGN, Ill. -- Illinois finished last in the Big Ten meet, won by Michigan State. The Spartans won three individual titles and scored 71 points.

Kentucky Drops Game Of Season To Tennessee

And then there were none.

Like the gold nickel cigar, songs that rhyme moon and June, and Edel autos, college basketball's last two undefeated teams faded quietly away over the weekend.

But Adolph Rupp and Don Haskins expect to have Kentucky and Texas Western back making plenty of noise in the NCAA playoffs which open tonight.

Both the Wildcats, ranked No. 1, and the second-rated Miners had 23 game winning streaks snapped Saturday and both Rupp and Haskins, while disappointed, hoped the defeat would teach their teams lessons.

Kentucky backed into Rupp's 22nd Southeastern Conference crown when Vanderbilt dropped a 92-90 decision to Mississippi State while the Wildcats were being upset by Tennessee 69-62.

Kentucky completes its regular schedule with a meaningless SEC game against Tulane tonight. Then Rupp has until Friday to repair his club's confidence for the Wildcats' NCAA playoff debut against the winner of tonight's Dayton-Miami of Ohio battle--one of two Midwest Regionals scheduled for Kent, Ohio. Chicago Loyola takes on Western Kentucky in the other.

Haskins had less time to regroup Texas Western. The Miners dropped a 74-72 decision at Seattle Saturday night and come right back tonight against Oklahoma City in the Mid West Regional at Wichita. Houston plays Colorado State in the other Midwest game.

In tonight's other NCAA playoff consolation game, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia takes on Providence and Davidson meets Rhode Island in the Eastern Regionals at Blacksburg, Va.

Meanwhile, the nation's other big post-season tournament, New York's National Invitational, completed its 14-team field with the addition of New York University, San Francisco, Villanova and Wichita. The NIT opens Thursday.

In other weekend action, Duke captured the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, overcoming North Carolina's freeze to win 21-20 Friday night and then whipping North Carolina State 71-66. The Blue Devils take on tonight's St. Joseph's-Princeton winner Friday.

Michigan clinched its third straight Big Ten crown by downing Northwestern 105-92 behind Cazzie Russell's 48 points. The Wolverines, who reached the NCAA finals last season, open their tournament play against the Chicago Loyola-Western Kentucky winner.

Kansas clinched a tie for the Big Eight title by whipping Kansas State 68-55 and can wrap up the conference crown and an NCAA berth against Southern Methodist next Friday by defeating Colorado tonight.

NYU and Villanova earned their NIT berths by beating St. John's of New York and DePaul, both of whom had already accepted bids. The Violets whipped the Redmen 67-58 for a 15-9 season's record. Villanova won its 10th in the last 11 by nipping DePaul 76-73.

San Francisco finished with a 91-65 victory over Pepperdine and a 21-5 record for second place in the West Coast Athletic Conference. Wichita, an 81-79 double overtime winner over Tulsa, finished tied for second with Bradley in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Dexter Opens Class L Play At Cape Tonight

COLUMBIA, Mo. AP -- Eight Class L teams open the first round of their state high school basketball tournament tonight at five locations.

The Class M and S tournaments were completed Saturday night, with both titles going to east central teams.

Owensville took the Class M crown with a 62-54 victory over Willard, and Wright City became Class S champion by beating Springfield Greenwood 55-45.

Willard shot only 32 per cent and Greenwood 29 per cent in their losing efforts.

The Class L quarter-finals will be played Wednesday at Kansas City, Jefferson City and St. Louis, and the semifinals and finals will be in St. Louis Friday and Saturday.

Tonight's pairings:

At St. Louis-Riverview Gardens vs. Augustinian; Lindbergh vs. Ritouner; Summer vs. McBride.

Spring Training Information

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
What would you have if you had Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, Juan Marichal, Jim Maloney and Jim Grant?

You'd have the best pitching staff in baseball, that's what you'd have.

And to erase their trouble, it could take, collectively, $1,175,000.

The five pitchers—who with Maury Wills, Tony Oliva and Frank Robinson comprise a celebrated list of holdouts—are asking that much to pitch for their respective teams this year.

And until they get what they want, instead of heading for spring training sites in Florida and Arizona, they are remaining in Studio City, Calif.; Hidden Hills, Calif.; the Dominican Republic, Fresno, Calif., and Shaker Heights, Ohio.

Koufax and Drysdale, who won 49 games during the season and three in the World Series for the Dodgers, each want a three-year contract worth $500,000.

Marichal, the Giants' 22-game winner, seeks $75,000; Maloney, who recorded two no-hitters among his 20 Cincinnati victories, wants $50,000 and Minnesota's Grant, a 21-game winner, asks $50,000 or maybe slightly less.

Neither pitchers nor their owners apparently have given much ground lately.

Last year the five hurlers won a total of 112 games and lost only 49. They struck out nearly one batter an inning while walking only two a game. They also compiled an earned run average of 2.53.

Wills, Oliva and Robinson also put together some good records last season. Wills hit .286 and stole 94 bases; Oliva, playing in only his second year, won his second straight American League batting title with a .321 average and Robinson batted .296 and drove in 113 runs.

Wills has expressed a desire for a $100,000 contract. The Twins' Oliva wants $35,000.

Robinson, traded during the winter from Cincinnati to Baltimore, reportedly seeks $64,000.

A MODERN ELECTRONIC ENGINE PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS IS LIKE A DOCTOR'S X-RAY

When you go to your Doctor for a checkup, he usually insists on an X-ray, to determine the exact condition of the vital organs that control body processes.

An electronic diagnosis of your engine and its electrical system is like an X-ray in that it determines the exact condition of each part and component that controls car performance.

Many vital engine parts are out of sight. It is impossible, for example, to see the action of the distributor points under actual working conditions. However, with our modern Rotunda Electronic Diagnosis Equipment, the exact condition of all such hidden parts is clearly indicated on the oscilloscope screen. Hawks Beat Knicks 119-106 With Last Minute Surge

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Philadelphia had a decided edge today in a bid to end Boston's perennial domination in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division as the smarting Celtics cried "foul" over the antics of 76er ace Wilt Chamberlain.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain, the NBA's all-time scoring king, connected for 32 points and grabbed 30 rebounds Sunday in leading the 76ers to a 119-110 victory over the Celtics and a sweep of a home-and-home weekend series.

"We never said anything about this before, but I've got to speak about Chamberlain now," Boston's retiring coach, Red Auerbach, said. "I never have seen a man so big and strong get the protection he gets."

Auerbach, who joked at half-time after receiving a goldfime pass from NBA President Walter Kennedy, was in no laughing mood after his Celtics slipped one-half game behind Philadelphia in their drive for a 10th straight Eastern title and an eighth consecutive league championship.

"Chamberlain is a great basketball player, but why don't the officials call him on the three-second rule and traveling?" Auerbach said. "He hops and hops all over, stands in the middle and pushes in off the boards. And he can back in all he wants."

"Ask (Bill) Russell, who was almost pushed out of the building. Just how can a player like Wilt get three personals in two weekend games?"

Chamberlain, who led the 76ers to a 102-85 romp over the Celtics in Philadelphia Saturday night, had a wide edge in another duel with Russell, who scored only eight points and grabbed 20 rebounds before fouling out with just under two minutes remaining.

Chamberlain hit for 10 field goals and cashed 12 of 25 free throws while playing man-to-man against Russell. With Boston in front, Wilt took charge and scored the 76ers' last five points, including a pair of free throws with nine seconds left.

In other games Sunday, Cincinnati beat Detroit 137-125, St. Louis whipped New York 119-106 and Los Angeles trounced back Baltimore 126-105.

The Lakers clinched at least a tie for the Western Division title by taking a seven-game lead over runner-up Baltimore with seven games to play. Elgin Baylor topped Los Angeles with a season high for him of 37 points.

SWIMMING
LOUISVILLE, Ky. -- Terry McCaffery of St. Louis U. finished second in the 1950-yard freestyle and the Billiken's Bob Morris was third in the 100-yard butterfly in the Missouri Valley Conference meet. The Bills finished third in the team standings with 64 points. Cincinnati won with 220, followed by Bradley with 85.

NORMAN, Okla. -- Oklahoma splashed to its twelfth straight Big Eight championship. Missouri was last with six points. The Sooners tabulated 134 points. Kansas was second with 81, followed in order by Nebraska, Iowa State, Kansas State, Oklahoma State and Colorado. Missouri's Mickey Varner was ninth in the three-meet diving competition and the Tigers' John Putnam was sixth in the 100-yard freestyle.

IOWA CITY -- Indiana captured its sixth Big Ten crown in succession. Illinois was ninth. The Hoosiers totaled 471 points to runner-up Michigan's 406 1/2. Michigan State was third with 325. The Illini scored 48 1/2 to finish behind everyone but Purdue.

FENCING
IOWA CITY -- Illinois successfully defended its Big Ten championship by piling up 26 points to second-place Iowa's 23. Michigan State was third with 22. John Toks of Illinois won the foil competition with a 4-1 record in the finals.

HOCKEY
MEMPHIS -- Jim Brennenman scored the deciding goal midway through the final period to lift the Minnesota Rangers to a 3-2 victory over the Memphis Wings in a Central League match. It was a free shooting game, with goalies Joe Daley of Memphis and Wayne Rutledge of Minnesota making 70 saves between them.

HOUSTON -- Andre Champagne and Lowell MacDonald scored third-period goals to earn Tulsa a 3-3 Central League tie with Houston. The Oilers scored first in the opening period, but Houston tallied three times before Tulsa's two third-period goals caused the deadlock.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) -- High-scoring Houston and Oklahoma City will be tested by the tough man-for-man defending of second-ranked Texas Western and Colorado State in NCAA first round games tonight in the 10-, 400-seat Wichita Roundhouse.

Houston, 21-5, first team in NCAA major college history to average 100 points a game, will face Colorado State, 14-7, at 7 p. m. CST, with the winner meeting Oregon State's Pacific Coast champions Friday night in the Far West Regional, at Los Angeles.

Oklahoma City, 24-4, deadly shooters from long range and No. 3 nationally in scoring with a 99 point average, will face Texas Western, 23-1, a perfect record club until Saturday night at 9 p. m. Then Rupp has until Friday to repair his club's confidence for the Wildcats' NCAA playoff debut against the winner of tonight's Dayton-Miami of Ohio battle--one of two Midwest Regionals scheduled for Kent. Ohio, Chicago Loyola takes off Western Kentucky in the other.

Haskins had less time to regroup Texas Western. The Miners dropped a 74-72 decision at Seattle Saturday night and come right back tonight against Oklahoma City in the Mid-east Regional at Wichita. Houston plays Colorado State in the other Midwest game.

In tonight's other NCAA play-off doubleheader, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia takes on Providence and Davidson meets Rhode Island in the Eastern Regionals at Blacksburg, Va.

Meanwhile, the nation's other big post-season tournament, New York's National Invitation, completed its 14-team field with the addition of New York University, San Francisco, Villanova and Wichita. The NIT opens Thursday.

"We hadn't been playing well on defense the past several games and it caught up with us," said Haskins, a protege of Hank Iba.

Abe Lemmons of OCU believes in shooting as soon as you cross the center stripe. Gary Gray, a full-blooded Delaware Indian, is deadly from 40 feet.

The rebound battle between James (Weasel) Ware of OCU, the No. 1 rebounder nationally, and Texas Western's rough 240-pound David (Daddy D) Lattin should be something to see.

The top man in the court, however, may be Houston's Elvin Hayes.

Hayes blocks shots like Bill Russell, is top-rated nationally by pro scouts and is a 28-point scorer. Lemmons puts it this way: "They ought to pass that Houston bunch on to the NCAA finals. Even Guy Lewis can't foul them up. They can leave Lewis at the hotel."

Lewis, a close friend of Lemmons, said he was "very concerned" about Colorado State. The Rams are led by Lonnie Wright, a 6-2 scorer and great jumper, and 6-8 Bob Rule.

captured the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, overcoming North Carolina's freeze to win 21-20 Friday night and then whipping North Carolina State 71-66. The Blue Devils take on tonight's St. Joseph's Providence winner Friday.

Michigan clinched its third straight Big Ten crown by downing Northwestern 105-92 behind Cazzie Russell's 48 points. The Wolverines, who reached the NCAA finals last season, open their tournament play against the Chicago Loyola-Western Kentucky winner.

Kansas clinched a tie for the Big Eight title by whipping Kansas State 68-55 and can wrap up the conference crown and an NCAA berth against Southern Methodist next Friday by defeating Colorado tonight.

NYU and Villanova earned their NIT berths by beating St. John's of New York and DePaul, both of whom had already accepted bids.

The Violets whipped the Redmen 67-58 for a 15-9 season's record. Villanova won its 10th in the last 11 by nipping DePaul 76-73.

San Francisco finished with a 91-65 victory over Pepperdine and a .91-5 record for second place in the West Coast Athletic Conference. Wichita, an 81-79 double overtime winner over Tulsa, finished tied for second with Bradley in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Spring Training Information

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
What would you have if you had Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, Juan Marichal, Jim Maloney and Jim Grant?

You'd have the best pitching staff in baseball, that's what you'd have.

And to erase their trouble, it could take, collectively, $1,175,000.

The five pitchers--who with Maury Wills, Tony Oliva and Frank Robinson comprise a celebrated list of holdouts--are asking that much to pitch for their respective teams this year.

And until they get what they want, instead of heading for spring training sites in Florida and Arizona, they are remaining in Studio City, Calif.; Hidden Hills, Calif.; the Dominican Republic, Fresno, Calif., and Shaker Heights, Ohio.

Koufax and Drysdale, who won 49 games during the season and three in the World Series for the Dodgers, each want a three-year contract worth $500,000.

Marichal, the Giants' 22-game winner, seeks $75,000; Maloney, who recorded two no-hitters among his 20 Cincinnati victories, wants $50,000 and Minnesota's Grant, a 21-game winner, asks $50,000 or maybe slightly less.

Neither pitchers nor their owners apparently have given much ground lately.

Last year the five hurlers won a total of 112 games and lost only 49. They struck out nearly one batter an inning while walking only two a game. They also compiled an earned run average of 2.53.

Wills, Oliva and Robinson also put together some good records last season. Wills hit .286 and stole 94 bases; Oliva, playing in only his second year, won his second straight American League batting title with a .321 average and Robinson batted .296 and drove in 113 runs.

Wills has expressed a desire for a $100,000 contract. The Twins' Oliva wants $85,000. Robinson, traded during the winter from Cincinnati to Baltimore, reportedly seeks $64,000.

Other holdouts include pitchers Bob Shaw of San Francisco, Juan Pizarro of the Chicago White Sox and Ralph Terry of Cleveland, infielder Billy Moran of Cleveland and catcher Joe McCabe of Washington.

Homer's poems were the world's first school textbook before the invention of printing gave the textbook new impetus. In America, the textbook was imported from England.

Popular education in the 19th century in the United States brought the first flood of schoolbooks. McGuffey's famous "Reader" sold more than 120 million copies. Today, half of all the books printed in the world are textbooks.

A MODERN ELECTRONIC ENGINE PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS IS LIKE A DOCTOR'S X-RAY

When you go to your Doctor for a checkup, he usually insists on an X-ray, to determine the exact condition of the vital organs that control body processes. An electronic diagnosis of your engine and its electrical system is like an X-ray in that it determines the exact condition of each part and component that controls car performance. Many vital engine parts are out of sight. It is impossible, for example, to see the action of the distributor points under actual working conditions. However, with our modern Rotunda Electronic Diagnosis Equipment, the exact condition of all such hidden parts is clearly indicated on the oscilloscope screen. Nothing is left to guesswork--nothing is overlooked. Let our trained diagnosis technicians give you a complete report on every phase of your engine's performance. It will pay big dividends in helping you to avoid future trouble.

TIME FOR A CHECK-UP?

Come in for a COMPLETE ENGINE PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS

If you're not getting top performance from your car's engine, now is the time to let our expert diagnosis technicians give you a report on the exact condition of your engine and its electrical system.

Hearnes Discusses First Year in Office, Critical Highway Needs

By Gov. Warren E. Hearnes

On the first anniversary of my inauguration as Missouri's 46th Governor, I was invited to speak at a student Union Recognition Banquet on the University of Missouri campus at Rolla. Thus, on March 11, 1966 I had an opportunity to take a backward look at my first year as Governor after serving 10 years in the Missouri House of Representatives and four as Secretary of State. After taking a searching look, I told these student listeners and leaders that—at the age of 42—I still listen and respect the advice and counsel of those who have had the benefit of more years of experience with the difficult process of living through those years, growing through those years, and even surviving those years.

But, a given number of years does not necessarily provide the answers we seek, and sometimes those years take a toll which prevents us from being attuned to the answers which can mean success or failure in our personal lives, our business careers and our understanding of even a portion of our increasingly complex environment.

Robert P. Gerholz, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said last month: "Ours is a ruthless age, economically speaking. The prizes for those who see and seize the opportunity are glittering trophies. The prizes for those who don't are dire."

Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor recently made a speech in which he said: "One of the most important intangibles is knowledge—knowledge of how to run a business successfully. Knowledge of how a city or state should be administered."

Labor Contract Signed at Plant

CARUTHERSVILLE -- More than three years in the Colson Corporation plant at Caruthersville came to a successful climax this week with the formal signing of an agreement between the plant's management and the Boilermakers union, Tuesday.

The official announcement came in a joint statement from Colson and the union.

A working agreement has been consummated between the Colson Corporation, Caruthersville, Mo., and the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers-Blacksmiths, Lodge #1012, AFL-CIO, and was ratified by the employees of the Colson plant at a special meeting held for that purpose.

"This agreement was signed March 1, 1966, but actually became effective retroactive to December 15, 1965, and is to continue in effect for a period of three years from and after December 15, 1965."

The actual contract signing was carried out by plant manager Harvey J. Hopkins, for the Colson Corporation and William H. Kincaid, union business manager from Granite City, Ill.

After the signing, Kincaid told Mayor B. F. Rogers that the new local will do all it can to become an active participant in promoting civic betterment for Caruthersville. The union will be ready to take an active role in community affairs, he said, such as fund drives, blood programs and other activities.

Lloyd Russell, international representative for the union, estimated that there are about 85 members in the new local.

As I emphasized to the student leaders at Rolla, we need leadership and vision on every level of citizen participation. We need men and women who will agree that basic government begins in their home town and necessarily becomes diluted as authority spreads to county, state and nation.

There are penalties in leadership needed to solve the problems discussed in this article and in the speech made to my student friends at Rolla. But, there are also rewards in economic and social well-being—maybe or maybe not for yourself alone, but for those also who will not accept the penalties of leadership, but only accept its rewards.

High Transogram Sales, Earnings

NEW YORK -- High sales and earnings have been reported by Transogram Company, New York, a 50-year-old toy manufacturer. For the year ended Dec. 31, net earnings nearly doubled to $794,977, up more than 90 per cent from $423,906, reported a year ago.

Sales climbed to $18,087,929 up 34 per cent from $15,511,219 last year.

According to Roy R. Raizen, president, the company's sales increased four times faster than the average increase of eight per cent reported by the toy industry in 1965.

This is the second year Transogram's sales have increased at a rate of four times the industry's average growth rate. Raizen said all divisions reported sales increases during the year including the company's Canadian operation.

He attributed the year's record to acceptance of Transogram's product lines including both staples and new specialty action toys introduced at the Toy Fair in March, 1965.

Raizen also indicated improved earnings resulted from operating efficiencies and improved management control throughout the company and its manufacturing plants. He also said the company's television promotions in principal markets around the United States were the most successful in Transogram's history and made a significant contribution to the increased sales for 1965.

The company has manufacturing plants in Easton, Pa.; Sturgis, Mich.; Sikeston, Mo.; and Toronto, Canada. The year 1965 marked Transogram's 50th anniversary in the toy industry.

Our 15-year-old son approached his girl friend with one hand cupped over the other. "Kay," he said, "if you can guess what I have in my hand, I'll take you to the show tonight."

"An elephant?" Kay asked.

"Nope," he replied. "But that's close enough. Pick you up at 7:30." Eugene Thomas

Mr. Bell liked to make things better...

After Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone in 1876, he did not rest on his laurels. He helped form the National Geographic Society, developed the basic method of making phonograph records on wax discs and pioneered a method of locating icebergs by detecting echoes from them. He made suggestions and contributions that helped give us air conditioning and the iron lung. For 46 years after inventing the telephone, he lived a vigorous and creative life.

Southwestern Bell likes to make things better, too ... Six short years ago, we did not offer the Princess® telephone, Home Interphone, Wide Area Telephone Service, Centrex service, Data-Phone data communications service or Panel Phone. There was no electronic artificial larynx, no automatic dialer and no Speakerphone. Today, these new items help us provide the best telephone service in the world. But we want to make it better. That's our legacy from Mr. Bell.

Hearnes Discusses First Year in Office, Critical Highway Needs

By Gov. Warren E. Hearnes

On the first anniversary of my inauguration as Missouri's 46th Governor, I was invited to speak at a student Union Recognition Banquet on the University of Missouri campus at Rolla. Thus, on January 11, 1966 I had an opportunity to take a backward look at my first year as Governor after serving 10 years in the Missouri House of Representatives and four as Secretary of State. But, a given number of years does not necessarily provide the answers we seek, and sometimes those years take a toll which prevents us from being attuned to the answers which can mean success or failure in our personal lives, our business careers and our understanding of even a portion of our increasingly complex environment.

Robert P. Gerholz, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said last month: "Ours is a ruthless age, economically speaking. The prizes for those who see and seize the opportunity are glittering trophies. The prizes for those who don't are dire."

Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor recently made a speech in which he said: "One of the most important intangibles is knowledge--knowledge of how to run a business successfully. Knowledge of how a city or state should be administered."

A Wall Street Journal writer recently called the problems of our Ozark region "immense."

But, let us exercise some of this essential knowledge so vital to our state today and place the economy of the Ozarks in perspective with all Missouri. When we do that, it offers a single close-at-home theorem or social and economic theory which must be faced intelligently, and hopefully solved, by citizens and those entrusted with leadership in private business and governmental relationships.

James C. Tanner's article in the Wall Street Journal had this to say about the Ozarks:

"Not the least of the problem is the area's isolation from big markets and its lack of natural resources. Wasteful practices by the region's early settlers are at least partly responsible for the latter problem."

He later wrote in the same article:

"Much of the new hope, however, rests on the prospect of help from Washington."

And still later:

"In recent hearings lawmakers heard testimony that the stretch of land beginning in Southern Illinois, extending across Missouri and Kansas and sloping southward into Arkansas and Oklahoma is in reality an area in greater economic distress than the much-publicized Appalachia."

"So," wrote Mr. Tanner, "a program patterned after the one billion dollar Appalachian Development act is in the works." He also noted that a key to attracting tourists and industry is construction of highways and that "planners and politicians hope and expect most of any federal aid will go toward more and better roads."

"Where roads have been built, tourism is rising," he wrote and then continued: "Southern Missouri's lakes will attract 250,000 this year--an increase of 30 per cent from years ago."

He concluded the article with a quotation from agricultural economist J. R. Ott of Little Rock in which the latter says the Ozarks can become the playground of mid-America and be within easy reach of Chicago or Dallas.

I quote from this article because it directly reflects statements made by Governor Faubus of Arkansas, Governor Bellmon of Oklahoma, Governor Avery of Kansas and myself after we met in Springfield last spring to discuss a regional compact which hopefully would do the very thing now envisioned in this federal legislation. We formed an informal compact at that meeting and issued a joint statement in which we informed our respective United States senators and our congressional delegation of our desire to join our four states' efforts for our own economic and social well-being.

In that statement, we made our approval contingent upon giving the governors and their state's governments a strong hand in the administration of such a program.

Much of our discussion in executive session, and at the press conference called immediately afterward, concerned roads in and to areas which do not now have them. I followed this with a statement at the annual Missouri Good Roads Association meeting in which I strongly urged good highways running north to south through and adjacent to counties, towns and cities which offer some of the finest outdoor recreation and industrial sites in the entire United States.

Many times since then I have discussed the problems of cities, counties and areas in Missouri which can gain an economic boost through these better avenues of motor transportation -- which in the final analysis is the basic type of transportation that keeps visitors within our state for a longer period.

We do need a highway from Kirksville in north or northeast Missouri to West Plains in south or Southeast Missouri. Highway 63 is about the only north-south highway upon which much improvement has been made in recent years -- and that has been done between Kirksville and Columbia to Jefferson City, but when you reach that city you must turn 11 miles east before you wind your way past Westphalia, Freeburg, Vienna, Vichy and Rolla to reach Highway 66.

Highway 40 is part of our interstate highway system. It is moving travelers very fast across the state between our mushrooming major metropolitan areas of St. Louis and Kansas City. This is fine, and fills a vital need, but we must aid visitors and Missourians to have better access to and from Hannibal, Maryville, Nevada, Farmington, Willow Springs, Neosho, Caruthersville and Rolla -- through north-south highways for passengers and goods.

When we met last spring with the governors of the other three states, I pointed out to them that Missouri's economic problems were not confined to the Ozarks. We are also concerned with decreasing population and lowered tax revenue in the counties of north Missouri, which traditionally have depended upon agriculture for income. I agree with Mr. Tanner's statement that much of our hope in building such roads rests with Washington. This is true for several reasons -- principally because so very few sources of revenue are left to the states, and we may lose more. Certainly the sources which we have cannot construct and maintain such a tremendous network of roads as we envision.

These roads are important to the Ozarks, north Missouri and all other economically troubled areas, and will help them remain self-supporting after federal aid dwindles or is withdrawn. We must use this money which is taken from, and then partially restored, to our governmental pockets wisely--use it as an investment and not as a windfall.

I have talked of the Ozarks and north Missouri, but what I have said applies equally as much to other areas of Missouri. Travel, industrial development, agriculture, roads, federal funds, state financial and social problems--we could list many more--these are all involved and intertwined in the complexity of our individual and collective futures.

As I emphasized to the student leaders at Rolla, we need leadership and vision on every level of citizen participation. We need men and women who will agree that basic government begins in their home town and necessarily becomes diluted as authority spreads to county, state and nation.

There are penalties in leadership needed to solve the problems discussed in this article and in the speech made to my student friends at Rolla. But, there are also rewards in economic and social well-being--maybe or maybe not for yourself alone, but for those also who will not accept the penalties of leadership, but only accept its rewards.

Labor Contract Signed at Plant

CARUTHERSVILLE -- More than three years in the Colson Corporation plant at Caruthersville came to a successful climax this week with the formal signing of an agreement between the plant's management and the Boltermakers union, Tuesday.

The official announcement came in a joint statement from Colson and the union.

A working agreement has been consummated between the Colson Corporation, Caruthersville, Mo., and the International Brotherhood of Boltermakers-Blacksmiths, Lodge #1012, AFL-CIO, and was ratified by the employees of the Colson plant at a special meeting held for that purpose.

"This agreement was signed March 1, 1966, but actually became effective retroactive to December 15, 1965, and is to continue in effect for a period of three years from and after December 15, 1965."

The actual contract signing was carried out by plant manager Harvey J. Hopkins, for the Colson Corporation and William H. Kincaid, union business manager from Granite City, Ill.

After the signing, Kincaid told Mayor B. F. Rogers that the new local will do all it can to become an active participant in promoting civic betterment for Caruthersville. The union will be ready to take an active role in community affairs, he said, such as fund drives, blood programs and other activities.

Lloyd Russell, international representative for the union, estimated that there are about 85 members in the new local.

Two File for Board Posts

KENNETT -- Cecil Wilson of Senath filed yesterday for a three-year term on the Dunklin County Board of Education from the South district, according to county superintendent, Mrs. Leonard Carney.

Earlier this week, Bill Lomax of Holcomb had filed as a candidate from the north district of the county.

An election for two district members of the school board will be held in conjunction with the regular school election on April 5.

Dexter Hospital Office Moved

DEXTER -- The business office of the Dexter Memorial hospital has now moved to 14 West Stoddard in the George Sisler office buildings.

The office will be shared with the Chamber of Commerce which is currently working on plans in opening an office and securing an office manager.

The hospital business office will remain open the same hours 8 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. The hospital telephone number is MA 4-5566.

During the recent fund raising campaign and for the past two months the business office has been located at 122 East Stoddard street, in the building formerly occupied by the Dexter Statesman. The office facilities were made available without charge through the courtesy of Homer A. Morgan who had leased this building from Thomson.

For Today From The Upper Room

Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men. (Matthew 4:19) PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for using imperfect instruments to make Thyself known throughout the world.
May we surrender our lives totally to Thee and thereby become living witnesses of our faith. In the name of the Master, who came to redeem us from our sins. Amen.

Moore Greer and wife have moved to their farm on the rock road just north of town. This is one of the most sensible couvicinity and no wolf need appear at their door as either Moore or Mistress Esther can beat him away. May health, wealth and happiness be theirs.

Geo. Rosenberry, who resided

Answers Your Problems

Dear Readers: Well, there is no way out of it. It's ten times as hard as it looks. In a recent column I said every woman should wear a girdle -- even if she's slender as a reed. Reasons:
(1) Girdles are a must to keep stockings up. (2) No matter how well reared, a woman needs a girdle or she will jiggle when she walks.

Dozens of females took the snap out of my advice by suggesting a variety of ways to keep stockings up WITHOUT a girdle. Hundreds of men insist that a woman SHOULD jiggle when she walks -- and why am I trying to take all the fun out of life anyway?

Dan Daniels, sparkling columnist for the Wheeling News-Register, wrote: "I'm the last guy in the world to put the rap on self-improvement, but I happen to think God's design is better. Why look up everything? When a lady trusses herself up like a knight in full armor, she doesn't look thinner, she merely rearranges the lumps. The best thing girls have going for them is that they are not boys. So please, Dear Ann, change your advice before you smother the one bright light in our lives and create a helluva boom in whalebone. -- DANNY BOY

From Lincoln, Nebraska:
When I returned from the rest room (where I removed my miserable girdle which had been choking me to death) several stenographers were in a huddle discussing your praise of the girdle. Like the man who enjoyed pounding his head on the floor because it felt so good when he stopped, the best thing
I can say for the girdle is that I put one on in the morning because it feels so darned good when I take it off at noon.
--HIPPY BUT HAPPY

Eureka, Calif.: I gave up trying to tell my wife what to do thirty years ago. She can stuff her cabbage in a 50-gallon oil drum, if it fits, but I've yet to meet a man who wouldn't rather look at a few honest curves than see a woman whose undergarments serve as sausage casings. -- TWENTY-TWENTY VISION

St. Louis: Your timing couldn't have been more unfortunate. I am the director of health and physical fitness for the Y. W.
C. A. We had just completed our press releases for "Throw Away Your Girdle Week" when you came out with that absurd statement, "Every woman needs a girdle."

Every woman does NOT need a girdle. Every woman needs to keep herself in good condition through proper diet and exercise. God gave women muscles for a reason. Girdles deprive the abdominal and der-riere muscles of the chance to do the work they were designed to do.
Please, Ann Landers, back down a little and help me fight the battle of the bulge. --MRS.
A. E.

Carmel, California: You have probably been deluged with complaints from the girdlehaters of the world. Please silence them with this:
Every major airline insists that their stewardesses wear girdles when on duty. Some pilots had hoped to include (as part of the routine pre-flight check), the snapping of girdles to insure compliance with the regulations, but the girls insisted that they be left on their honor. Is this fair? -- M. D.

Dear M. D.: Yes, it's fair.

Jones Explains His Stand on Tax Bill

WASHINGTON -- Congressman Paul Jones, Kennett Democrat, told the House why he was opposed to the tax bill to change withholding procedures and to postpone excise tax rate reductions:

"No one realizes more than I do that what I am about to say will be an exercise in futility, especially in addressing some 20 or 25 Members who are on the floor. I think I understand what the final result will be.
I do not intend to make any point of order that a quorum is not present, because I think minds are pretty well made up.
"I am in a different position than most of those who have already, or will speak on this bill, inasmuch as I was one of those six who voted against the tax reduction bill last June. At that time I explained that it was not because I was opposed to the reduction and elimination of wartime excise taxes, which should have been removed many years ago, but rather I was opposed to reducing our revenue at a time when we were preparing to authorize an increase in the debt limit. I thought at the time that both actions would have an inflationary effect, and I believe my fears in this respect have been confirmed.

"Now, if I voted against the repeal and reduction of taxes last June, some may get the idea that I would be in the most favorable position to vote for this bill today. I will take the few minutes that have been granted to me, to explain why I believe this House will be acting in a most inconsistent and irresponsible manner by adopting the bill now before us.

"First, I would remind my friends who are inclined to vote for this bill, that last June we eliminated the excise taxes on many luxury and non-essential commodities and services, and while the bill we are voting on today proposes to restore the cuts which were made on such essential items as automobiles and telephone services, we are doing nothing to reinstate the taxes on jewelry, furs, luggage, purses, handbags, toilet articles, electric, gas and oil appliances, many of which fall into the luxury class, enjoyed by the more affluent segment of our society. When we speak of other items which were included in the removal of excise taxes last June, we are talking about the expensive hi-fi sets, color television, all types of sporting goods, the more sophisticated types of photographic equipment and projectors, used by those who have the means to pay for their indulgence in these types of hobbies. Last June we also removed the excise taxes from cabarets and night clubs, dues for exclusive social clubs, safe deposit boxes, bowling alleys and billiard parlors, as well as the excise taxes on telegraphic services. The people who use these facilities and services have been relieved of the nuisance and excise taxes, and there is nothing in this bill today to restore those cuts.

However, this bill does propose to reinstate the reductions which were made on automobiles and telephones, certainly as essential as any commodity
I know.

"Tell me, Mr. Chairman, how are we going to justify the discrimination which will be made by the adoption of this bill?
"Now let us get down to another consideration which apparently has been overlooked by most people, especially those who are content to let someone else do ful planes is as much fun as any man is entitled to in the course of a day's work.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann their thinking for them. I know the President, in his state of the Union message, made some 12 days after some of these reductions had taken effect, recommended the reinstatement of the tax levies on automobiles and telephone service, but I ask you in all sincerity, do you think this recommendation was made as the result of a study by the President. Certainly not, and while I know he accepts the full responsibility of any recommendation he makes, I think all of you know that the same advisers who made the recommendation for the cut last June, made the recommendation for the increase at this time. They were wrong last June and I say they are just as wrong this time. All they are doing now is compounding the mistakes of the past.

"Do you mean to tell me, Mr.
Chairman, that it was a great surprise to anyone who pretends to know what is going on in the world, to learn that the cost of the war in Vietnam was to continue to rise, and that those who made those recommendations last June did not know that when Congress came back into session this January that there would be the necessity of providing additional revenue? If they did not know that they have no business being in the position of being the advisers to the President.

"Not only that, Mr. Chairman, but I am telling you that, while we are attempting to go through a lot of bookkeeping maneuvers to collect taxes in advance, and we are going to recoup a small portion of the excise taxes we removed last June, we are still going to fall short of raising the money which will be needed to carry on the operations upon which we have embarked throughout the world, including the war in Vietnam. I am not an economist, I am not even an accountant or bookkeeper, and I do not have a crystal ball, but I do believe that I am a man of average intelligence, who has tried to benefit from the experience I have gained throughout the years, and I try to use those faculties with which I am endowed, and on that basis, I am making the prediction here and now that either one of two things will happen before this session of Congress adjourns. Either the President will be coming to this Congress asking for additional revenue, in the form of new or increased taxes, or the fiscal year 1967 will end with a deficit far larger than has been estimated by the President's best advisers. Of course, the Ways and Means Committee which brings us this bill today, under a closed rule, which I voted against, will be back before us with another bill, under a closed rule, asking for an increase in the debt ceiling. I continue to have hope, and I hope that this time they will bring us a bill authorizing a permanent debt ceiling, instead of trying to kid the public with a so-called temporary debt ceiling, maintaining the old unrealistic permanent debt ceiling of $285 billion.

"We are being asked today to approve this bill, consisting of some 50 pages of very technical language, which I doubt if as many as six Members of this House can explain in detail, but which will unquestionably be adopted, to be added to other volumes of the United States Code, and to be translated into regulations of the Internal Revenue Service, which will add to the headaches of the taxpayers and the occupants who make up their returns.

"How much more simple it would be, if we would send this bill back to the Ways and Means Committee, with a simple request, worded something like this: 'Permanently remove the excise taxes which we reduced or eliminated last June, and then add a surtax to the present income tax of whatever amount is needed to produce the revenue which this administration estimates is necessary to carry on the activity in Vietnam, said additional tax to be automatically repealed, at the end of the fiscal year following the cessation of hostilities and the removal of all U. S. troops from Vietnam.'

Thus we would be honest in saying to the public that this is a war tax, levied for a specified purpose, and is to be removed when that purpose has been fulfilled.

"Again I say, as many speakers have said before, I do not like to vote for a tax increase but I do believe in paying our bills. If we are going to spend the money and if we are going to incur the expenses carrying on a war in Vietnam,
I think we should pay for it and when we have paid for those expenses, then take the taxes off."

Woman Victim In Oil Lease

CHARLESTON -- At least one instance of an irresponsible, day-night oil lease operator has come to light.
A woman, who asked to remain unnamed, signed a lease on 80 acres of land, giving the operator, "full interest" in gas or oil interests in consideration for a $100 draft on an Indianapolis bank.

The draft was processed for payment through the First Bank of East Prairie, but the Indianapolis bank informed Dick Reed the person was unknown, that he had no account with that bank and that efforts to trace him through city and telephone directories had turned up blanks.
The woman concerned said she would take legal means to have the lease voided.

LYNN TWITTY, superintendent of the public school, and W. F. Sikes, director of manpower and development training for the system, are two of the moving forces behind the Southeast Missouri Trade-Technical Institute.

WAYNE HOLLAND of Hayti is an adult student in auto mechanics at the Southeast Missouri Trade-Technical Institute.

50 Teachers Work Around Clock

JEFFERSON CITY -- More than 50 instructors in Sikeston are working practically around the clock to administer a vocational training program, called the Southeast Missouri Trade-Technical Institute.

Started in 1964, the institute now has an enrollment of 327 students from the Sikeston schools, plus 105 students commuting from surrounding areas. In addition to this vocational program, for high school students, 257 adults are learning occupations financed under the Federal Manpower Development Training Act. Women represent 20 per cent of the total trainees under the act.

Realizing the needs for vocational education, especially for the 50 to 60 per cent of high school graduates who are not college bound, the Sikeston public schools board of education, decided to take action. In cooperation with the Missouri division of employment security, state department of education and the U. S. department of health, education and welfare, a program of day and night classes were organized.

"These students and adults are getting jobs and, in most cases, well paying jobs," stated Lynn Twitty, superintendent of schools.

To cite a few:

In a clerk-stenographer class 88 per cent of the graduates found employment. Graduate trainees in practical nursing were all employed. And 84 per cent of the class members graduating in auto mechanics received jobs.

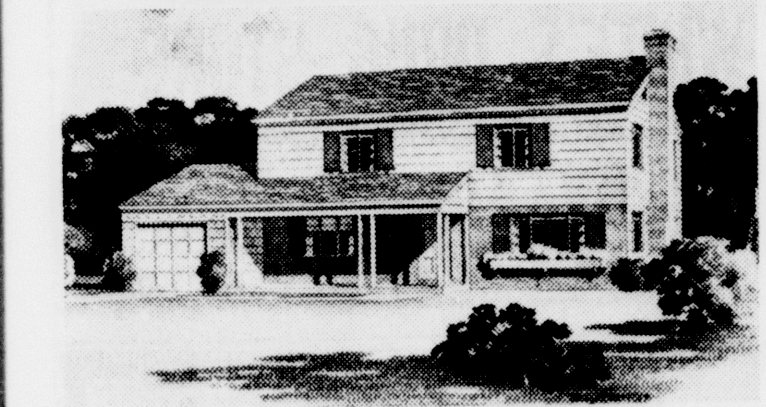

Vocational activities at Sikeston require approximately 43,000 square feet of building space. Day students begin classes at 7:30 a.m. and when they leave at 2:30 p.m., the adult trainees take over the classrooms and shops. The last training classes vacate the building at 11 p.m.

The cost of vocational training for high school day students is partly financed through the vocational education act of 1963. These are federal funds. The remainder is paid by the participating schools in the area. Most of the adult programs are fully financed under the federal manpower development training act passed in 1962.

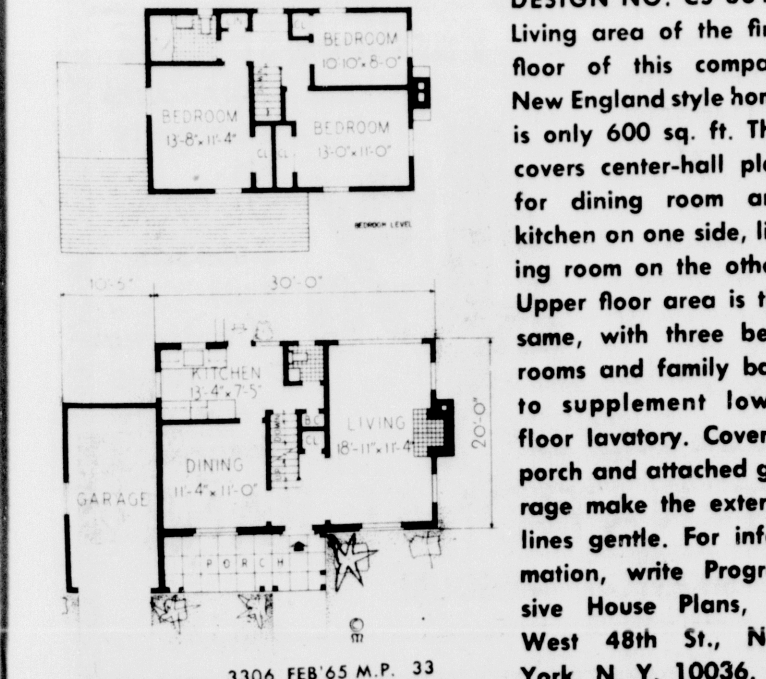

According to Harold Vogel, administrative assistant, high school day students are offered courses in power machinery mechanics, auto body and fender repair, welding, graphic arts, design drafting, electronics, bookkeeping-clerical, refrigeration and many others. Adult students, stated W. F. Sikes, director of manpower and development training, can receive training in the courses plus air conditioning, office machines, rapid writing, household technology, sewing, practical nursing, basic education and other subjects.

On the state level Missouri's vocational-technical schools are receiving added impetus. The great value of vocational-technical schools throughout Missouri has been stressed by Henry Maddox, director of the state division of commerce and industrial development. "Not only do these programs provide job training for students and the unemployed," stated Maddox, "but they will help to alleviate industry's critical labor shortages. Skilled workers and technical people are wanted almost everywhere. Industry's manpower needs are being reassessed upward. Missouri's unemployment rate is now down to 3%, which is the lowest it has been in many years. If we are to enjoy increased industrial expansion in Missouri we must have more occupational training programs," concluded Maddox.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has designated the Lieutenant Governor, Thomas Eagleton, as coordinator for a research study designed to evaluate the vocational-technical training needs of the state and to make recommendations for improvement.

12A-SALESMEN WANTED

SALESMAN: Age 26 to

LYNN TWITTY, superintendent of the public school, and W. F. Sikes, director of manpower and development training for the system, are two of the moving forces behind the Southeast Missouri Trade-Technical Institute.

WAYNE HOLLAND of Hayti is an adult student in auto mechanics at the Southeast Missouri Trade-Technical Institute.

50 Teachers Work Around Clock

JEFFERSON CITY -- More than 50 instructors in Sikeston are working practically around the clock to administer a vocational training program, called the Southeast Missouri Trade-Technical Institute.

Started in 1964, the institute now has an enrollment of 327 students from the Sikeston schools, plus 105 students commuting from surrounding areas. In addition to this vocational program for high school students, 257 adults are learning occupations financed under the Federal Manpower Development Training Act. Women represent 20 per cent of the total trainees under the act.

Realizing the needs for vocational education, especially for the 50 to 60 per cent of high school graduates who are not college bound, the Sikeston public schools board of education, decided to take action. In cooperation with the Missouri division of employment security, state department of education and the U. S. department of health, education and welfare, a program of day and night classes were organized.

"These students and adults are getting jobs and, in most cases, well paying jobs," stated Lynn Twitty, superintendent of schools.

To cite a few:

In a clerk-stenographer class 88 per cent of the graduates found employment. Graduate trainees in practical nursing were all employed. And 84 per cent of the class members graduating in auto mechanics received jobs.

Vocational activities at Sikeston require approximately 43,000 square feet of building space. Day students begin classes at 7:30 a.m. and when they leave at 2:30 p.m., the adult trainees take over the classrooms and shops. The last training classes vacate the building at 11 p.m.

The cost of vocational training for high school day students is partly financed through the vocational education act of 1963. These are federal funds. The remainder is paid by the participating schools in the area. Most of the adult programs are fully financed under the federal manpower development training act passed in 1962.

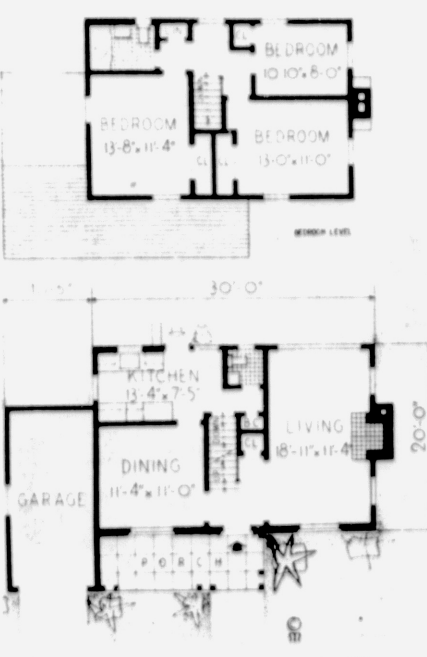

According to Harold Vogel, administrative assistant, high school day students are offered courses in power machinery, mechanics, auto body and fender repair, welding, graphic arts, design drafting, electronics, bookkeeping-clerical, refrigeration and many others. Adult students, stated W. F. Sikes, director of manpower and development training, can receive training in the courses plus air conditioning, office machines, rapid writing, household technology, sewing, practical nursing, basic education and other subjects.

On the state level Missouri's vocational-technical schools are receiving added impetus. The great value of vocational-technical schools throughout Missouri has been stressed by Henry Maddox, director of the state division of commerce and industrial development. "Not only do these programs provide job training for students and the unemployed," stated Maddox, "but they will help to alleviate industry's critical labor shortages. Skilled workers and technical people are wanted almost everywhere. Industry's manpower needs are being reassessed upward. Missouri's unemployment rate is now down to 3%, which is the lowest it has been in many years. If we are to enjoy increased industrial expansion in Missouri we must have more occupational training programs," concluded Maddox.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has designated the Lieutenant Governor, Thomas Eagleton, as coordinator for a research study designed to evaluate the vocational-technical training needs of the state and to make recommendations for improvement.

Jones Assured by Viet Nam Briefing

NEW MADRID -- By Congressman Paul C. Jones.

All members of Congress, Representatives and Senators, have had the opportunity of attending a briefing on the Viet Nam situation, at which Vice President Humphrey gave an account of his recent visit to Southeast Asia; at which President Johnson gave a review of our involvement in Vietnam and reported on conditions as they are at the present time; following which members had the opportunity of asking any questions which were answered either by the President or Vice President, or by Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of Defense McNamara, General Wheeler, Chief of Staff or Ambassador Averell Harriman.

There were two sessions of the briefings, the first attended by about 200, including members of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees, members of the Armed Services Committees, and members of the Foreign Relations and Foreign Affairs Committees.

On the following day, along with more than 200 other members of Congress I went to the White House at 8:30 a.m., for a similar briefing with Vice President Humphrey leading off with a 20-minute report on his trip, after being introduced by President Johnson who announced that this would be an open session, "no holds barred" in which all members would be given direct answers to any questions coming to their minds.

Never in the more than 17 years that I have been a member of Congress have I attended any meeting where the members of the Executive Department, including the President, opened themselves so completely and so frankly. I have never seen President

Johnson in better form, and speaking without reference to any notes, (with the exception of reading brief excerpts from the August 10, 1964, Joint Resolution approved by Congress by a vote of 502-23) spoke intermittently for approximately one hour during the conference which lasted for two hours.

Answering most of the questions himself, he did call upon the Vice President and the two members of his cabinet for comments on some of the questions. General Wheeler also reported on the military aspects, including the morale of troops in Vietnam. Those few who did not attend the briefing, passed up what I consider one of the highlights of my experience in Congress, and I can truthfully say that I left that meeting with greater assurance, and more complete confidence in the actions which have been and which are being taken in the distasteful situation in which we find ourselves, than I had ever dreamed would be possible.

It is most unfortunate that the entire briefing could not have been televised, for it would have been most beneficial for the people of this nation to have watched and listened, not necessarily to the remarks of the President and Vice President, but the manner and the frankness with which they answered the questions, which covered every area. It is one thing to listen to a speech on television, which raises many questions in the minds of the viewer which it quite another to be in a group such as this where there are experts, including critics, to ask the questions and to have them answered, or to have a more detailed explanation of a situation.

Ozark Development Region Designated

WASHINGTON AP--An Ozark economic development region, embracing 125 counties in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, was designated officially in ceremonies in the office of Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor Tuesday. Officials of the three states attended.

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas was the only governor present. Governors of Oklahoma and Missouri sent representatives.

Members of Congress from the three states also attended the ceremonies.

Official designation of the Ozark region under a 1965 act of Congress is the first step in a program aimed at development of the area's economy. Next step will be formation of a commission to direct a long range plan for the area's development.

Connor said the regional approach to area problems is not new.

"The people of the Ozarks... share a history and a culture of their own, as they share also in the history and the culture of the nation as a whole," he said.

People of a region must work together "toward the realization of reasonable goals based on careful analysis of their own resources and the national resources in which they share," he said.

Development of a region is also in the national interest since the well-being of the country as a whole is tied in with the well-being of its component parts, he added.

Faubus said that when an individual falls behind in the economic race a helping hand must be extended to him.

"It is the same with a region," he said. "This is a helping hand. We welcome it."

Philip V. Maher, administrative assistant to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, said "We look forward to the coordination of planning activity and to working with our sister states."

Eugene P. Foley, assistant Secretary of Commerce for economic development, told the meeting that the commission to be set up will consist of a federal co-chairman appointed by the President and a member from each state, one of whom will be named co-chairman for the states.

Kennett Woman Charged with Leaving Accident

GIDEON -- Chief of Police Bo Wingo states that Mrs. Roxie Ann Jones, 37, of Kennett was arrested by the Dunklin County Sheriff's Department Tuesday. Deputy Wingo transferred Mrs. Jones to the New Madrid County Jail Wednesday, where her bond was set.

According to Chief Wingo last Sunday at 1:30 p.m. Don Winston of Gideon was traveling east on highway 162 near the No. 2 ditch when a 1959 Ford traveling west ran off the road, came back on the highway and across the center line, struck the left front of his car and continued on.

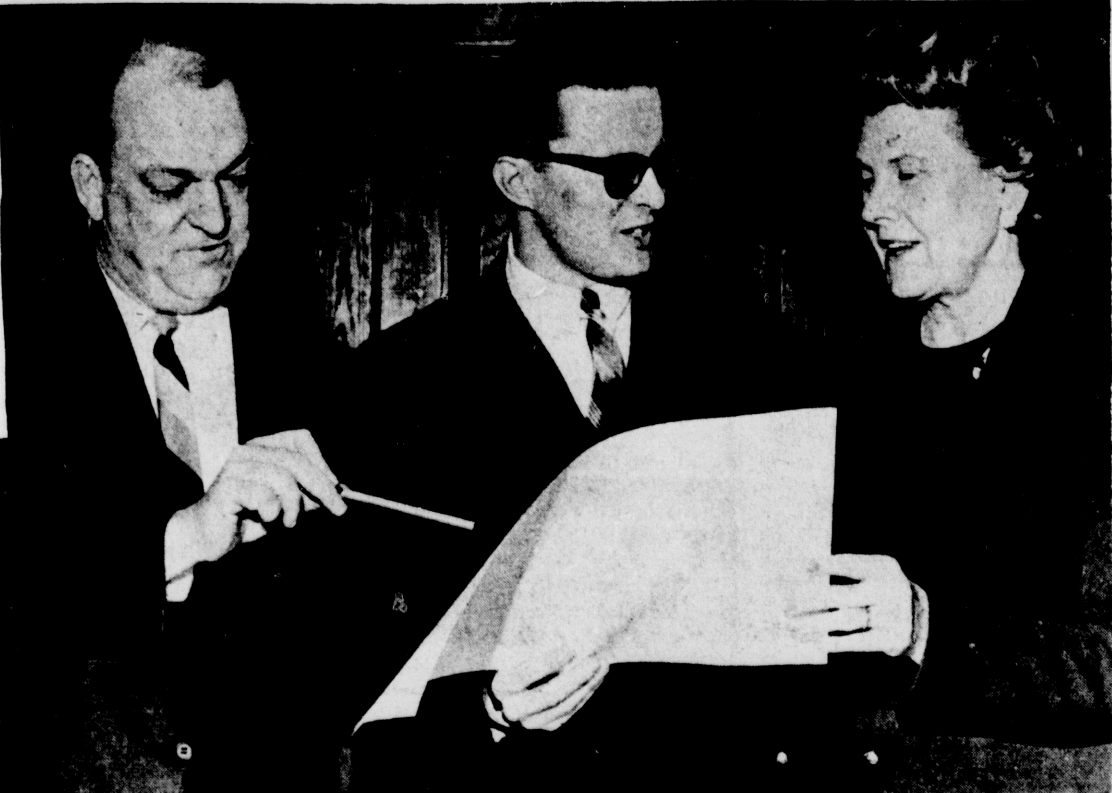

Winston noted the make of the vehicle and the license and notified the highway patrol who traced the information out and found Mrs. Jones and the car at her home in Kennett.

She was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Appeal from Cotton Belt Freight Move Indicated

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Several southeast Missouri mayors, including B. F. Rogers of Caruthersville have indicated they will appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Missouri Public Service Commission to intercede on the announced move by the Cotton Belt Railroad to less-than-car freight shipments to 28 area communities.

The St. Louis Southwestern Railroad (Cotton Belt) announced last week that it will discontinue that service on March 6 but gave no reason for its move.

Among the communities effected by the curtailment of service are Caruthersville, Braggadocio, Deering, Peach Orchard, New Madrid, Malden, and Dexter.

Should an appeal be made, an official of the Public Service Commission stated that both the PSC and ICC would have to approve it if the Cotton Belt's decision is to be overruled. If the appeal is made, the official went on to state that the cutoff date would be suspended until both agencies could hold hearings on the matter.

At the present Cotton Belt's less-than-car shipments to Caruthersville are brought in by Southwestern Transportation Co., a trucking subsidiary, from Blytheville. It has two trains into Caruthersville weekly and this schedule will be maintained at the present time.

The St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad (Frisco) cut out less-than-carload shipments to Caruthersville last spring but maintained a schedule of three trains a week here at the present time. The new Cotton Belt plan is similar to that of Frisco's. Basically this is that the minimum shipment will be 6,000 pounds, all loaded at one point and going to a single destination. Smaller shipments might be made but the cost will still be for that of 6,000 pounds.

Mayor Rodgers last week said he felt that less-than-carload shipments should be maintained because removal of such service would handicap the community and would place a "real hardship" on the citizens.

The Caruthersville mayor went on to say that the railroad should be required to continue the service so that a competitive price can be maintained with the trucking industry. He indicated that Caruthersville will appeal the decision if other communities do so.

There were signs from the mayors of Dexter, Malden and New Madrid that they might also appeal to the ICC and PSC on the matter but all indicated that it would have to be a united effort on the part of the area communities.

The PSC official, however, pointed out that if the railroad could produce proof that it is losing money on less-than-car load lots there is little chance that the appeals will be approved.

He went on to add that the Cotton Belt move is one that is becoming quite common across the nation by many railroads. In many cases, he said, the railroads cannot compete with the rates nor the service offered by the trucking industry without going into the red.

Two File for Charleston School Board

CHARLESTON -- Two candidates have filed for election to the R-1 board of education, subject to the will of the voters in the April 5 election, according to Mrs. H. R. Hequemour, board secretary.

The candidates are Morris Gaines and Billy G. Brown. Incumbents James C. Moreton and Fred Moxley have not yet announced their intentions.

Gaines, 50, has been manager of the Missouri Utilities Co. here since coming to Charleston in July, 1959. A native of Gideon, he moved to Charleston from Girardeau.

Gaines is a graduate of Cape Central high school, and received advanced training from the International Correspondence Schools in accounting and from General Electric Co. engineering schools.

He has a wife, Janet, and two children, Barbara, 17, and Brad 14.

Brown, 37, is a native of Mississippi County and a graduate of Charleston high school. A farmer, he lives three miles west of Charleston, and operates 1,150 acres of land.

He served on the Millar School Board for four years, until that district's annexation with the East Prairie R-2 District.

Brown is married to the former Frances Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Watkins. They have two daughters, Ginger 13, and Jill, 9.

$153,014 Paid For Welfare

The Scott county welfare office reported a total of 2,029 cases paid $153,014.45, for February, according to Mrs. Cathleen Gipson, director.

The cases total payments and the average for each was:

Executive for Unit Sought

KENNETT -- Services offered by the Southeast Missouri Mental Health Association will be extended to educational, religious and medical institutions, it was announced today by Troy Wilson, Kennett, president of the association.

Wilson said the association, sponsors of the Mental Health Clinic at Kennett, will accept applications for a field executive who will begin a mental health education and service program in Dunklin, Pemiscot, New Madrid, Butler, Scott and Mississippi counties. He said the extension of the association's work was approved at a meeting of the board of directors at Hayti.

Columbia to Build Aged Facility

COLUMBIA -- Ralph G. Maledy, chairman of the Columbia housing authority, announced that a contract for the construction of $1,770,000 facility for the elderly has been signed with the John Epple Construction company.

The eight - story building will contain 147 apartments especially equipped for the aged. The structure, designed by the architectural firm, of Neville, Sharp and Simon, Inc., Kansas City, will be fireproof and designed for the safety.

The first floor will house a senior citizens community center. Rooms for recreation, handicraft activities, organized meetings, banquets, cooking classes, sewing circles, card playing, library and television will be provided.

The Boone county Mental Health association, an United Fund agency, will coordinate the programs in the center.

A health clinic will be located on the first floor.

A waiting room, two examining rooms, an office and laboratory will be built.

The health clinic will be supervised by the city health department.

A full time manager will be in the building.

The three-acre site, on which the building will be erected, has numerous trees that will be preserved.

What the Communists Are Saying About You

by Karl Baarslag

Peking Review of July 23, 1965 carried another long article entitled: "U.S. Troops Must Get Out of South Vietnam." We are told that "The defeat of U.S. imperialism in Vietnam is a foregone conclusion." No time limit is set. The heroic Vietnamese people have proclaimed to the world that they will not lay down their weapons as long as U.S. aggressors refuse to get out of South Vietnam. "If one year is not enough they will fight on for ten years. If the fight cannot be finished in one generation, then it will be carried on from generation to generation until the aggressive U.S. troops are driven out of South Vietnam to the last man." A cartoon showing Pres. Johnson and Defense Secretary McNamara as two flies caught on Vietnamese flypaper reads: Johnson: Any way out of this fix?

McNamara: Bring in another 100,000 flies, how about it?

The July 30, 1965 issue returns to the same propaganda theme: "The United States cannot possibly win--accelerated 'Escalation' means accelerated defeat." The article adds, "It is common knowledge that the Johnson administration's dangerous moves in 'escalating' the war of aggression in Vietnam find little support at home." The painful lessons of Korea "are still fresh in the memories of Republicans and Democrats in Congress and they are worried about the catastrophe the Johnson administration's adventurist move will bring to the United States. In order to expand the war of aggression, Johnson has no alternative but to resort to shameless lies in the hope that with these lies he can get over the difficulties and obstacles at home." Not only has there been "strong opposition among the masses," the paper claims but there has been "increasing censure from members of the ruling classes."

This, of course, is a direct reference to the college "teach-ins," wholesale protests from pacifist and left-liberal segments of the clergy, and criticism by several U.S. senators and other prominent figures. As not a single peep of dissent is ever tolerated in a Communist country, Communists naturally derive considerable satisfaction and encouragement from open opposition to a government's policy in non-Communist countries. They erroneously reason and hope that such dissent and opposition can be fanned and spread to such an extent as to paralyze and to weaken the government's action.

August 6, 1965 Peking Review assured the world that "China Stands Ready to Smash U.S. War Schemes." The article quoted from a speech by the Chief of Staff of the Red Chinese Army and also a vice premier, Lo Jui-ching, marking the 38th anniversary of the founding of the Red Army, or Chinese Peoples Liberation Army (PLA). Lo boasted:

We have continued to give paramount importance to politics, thereby further developing the spiritual atom bomb which our revolutionary people's army possesses. In the past year too, we have successfully mastered the material atom bomb which we did not possess in the past.

Americans are then warned: If they should lose all sense of reality in their lust for power, misjudge the Chinese people's strength and determination and impose a war on them and compel them to accept the challenge, then the Chinese people and the Chinese Peoples Liberation Army, who have long since made every preparation and who stand ready in battle array, would not only take them on till the very end but would invite them to come in large numbers. And the more the better, for we would then have more opportunities to fight in unity with the revolutionary forces of the world and to struggle in the interests of the world's people for the early

Lo Jui-ching in effect says that any war between the United States and Communist China would be a cinch because it would bring Russia, the rest of the Communist world and the Communist parties and underground in the United States and other countries of the free world to China's aid.

Jones Assured by Viet Nam Briefing

NEW MADRID -- By Congressman Paul C. Jones.

All members of Congress, Representatives and Senators, have had the opportunity of attending a briefing on the Viet Nam situation, at which Vice President Humphrey gave an account of his recent visit to Southeast Asia; at which President Johnson gave a review of our involvement in Vietnam and reported on conditions as they are at the present time; following which members had the opportunity of asking any questions which were answered either by the President or Vice President, or by Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of Defense McNamara, General Wheeler, Chief of Staff or Ambassador Averell Harriman.

There were two sessions of the briefings, the first attended by about 200, including members of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees, members of the Armed Services Committees, and members of the Foreign Relations and Foreign Affairs Committees.

On the following day, along with more than 200 other members of Congress I went to the White House at 8:30 a.m., for a similar briefing with Vice President Humphrey leading off with a 20-minute report on his trip, after being introduced by President Johnson who announced that this would be an open session, "no holds barred" in which all members would be given direct answers to any questions coming to their minds.

Never in the more than 17 years that I have been a member of Congress have I attended any meeting where the members of the Executive Department, including the President, opened themselves so completely and so frankly. I have never seen President

Johnson in better form, and speaking without reference to any notes, (with the exception of reading brief excerpts from the August 10, 1964, Joint Resolution approved by Congress by a vote of 502-2) spoke intermittently for approximately one hour during the conference which lasted for two hours.

Answering most of the questions himself, he did call upon the Vice President and the two members of his cabinet for comments on some of the questions. General Wheeler also reported on the military aspects, including the morale of troops in Vietnam. Those few who did not attend the briefing, passed up what I consider one of the highlights of my experience in Congress, and I can truthfully say that I left that meeting with greater assurance, and more complete confidence in the actions which have been and which are being taken in the distasteful situation in which we find ourselves, than I had ever dreamed would be possible.

It is most unfortunate that the entire briefing could not have been televised, for it would have been most beneficial for the people of this nation to have watched and listened, not necessarily to the remarks of the President and Vice President, but the manner and the frankness with which they answered the questions, which covered every area. It is one thing to listen to a speech on television, which raises many questions in the minds of the viewer which they cannot have answered. It is quite another to be in a group such as this where there are experts, including critics, to ask the questions and to have them answered, or to have a more detailed explanation of a situation.

Ozark Development Region Designated

WASHINGTON AP-- An Ozark economic development region, embracing 125 counties in Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, was designated officially in ceremonies in the office of Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor Tuesday. Officials of the three states attended.

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas was the only governor present. Governors of Oklahoma and Missouri sent representatives.

Members of Congress from the three states also attended the ceremonies.

Official designation of the Ozark region under a 1965 act of Congress is the first step in a program aimed at development of the area's economy.

Next step will be formation of a commission to direct a long range plan for the area's development.

Connor said the regional approach to area problems is not new.

"The people of the Ozarks... share a history and a culture of their own, as they share also in the history and the culture of the nation as a whole," he said.

"They share problems and they share hopes and expectations."

People of a region must work together "toward the realization of reasonable goals based on careful analysis of their own resources and the national resources in which they share," he said.

Development of a region is also in the national interest since the well-being of the country as a whole is tied in with the well-being of its component parts, he added.

Faubus said that when an individual falls behind in the economic race a helping hand must be extended to him.

"It is the same with a region," he said. "This is a helping hand. We welcome it."

Philip V. Maher, administrative assistant to Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, said "We look forward to the coordination of planning activity and to working with our sister states."

Eugene P. Foley, assistant Secretary of Commerce for economic development, told the meeting that the commission to be set up will consist of a federal co-chairman appointed by the President and a member from each state, one of whom will be named co-chairman for the states.

Kennett Woman Charged with Leaving Accident

GIDEON -- Chief of Police Bo Wingo states that Mrs. Roxie Ann Jones, 37, of Kennett was arrested by the Dunklin County Sheriff's Department Tuesday. Deputy Wingo transferred Mrs. Jones to the New Madrid County Jail Wednesday, where her bond was set.

According to Chief Wingo last Sunday at 1:30 p.m. Don Winston of Gideon was traveling east on highway 162 near the No. 2 ditch when a 1959 Ford traveling west ran off the road, came back on the highway and across the center line, struck the left front of his car and continued on.

Winston noted the make of the vehicle and the license and notified the highway patrol who traced the information out and found Mrs. Jones and the car at her home in Kennett.

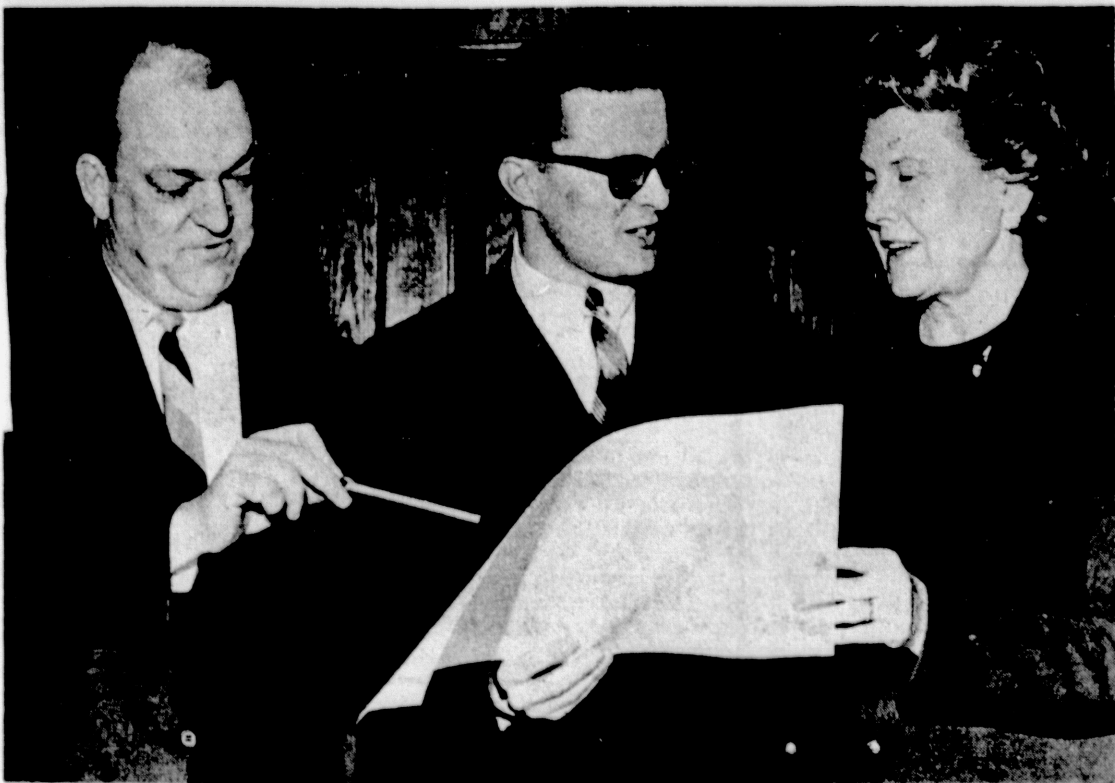

She was charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Appeal from Cotton Belt Freight Move Indicated

CARTHURSVILLE --Several southeast Missouri mayors, including B. F. Rogers of Caruthersville have indicated they will appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Missouri Public Service Commission to intercede on the announced move by the Cotton Belt Railroad to less-than-car freight shipments to 28 area communities.

The St. Louis Southwestern Railroad (Cotton Belt) announced last week that it will discontinue that service on March 6 but gave no reason for its move.

Among the communities effected by the curtailment of service are Caruthersville, Braggadocio, Deering, Peach Orchard, New Madrid, Malden, and Dexter.

Should an appeal be made, an official of the Public Service Commission stated that both the PSC and ICC would have to approve it if the Cotton Belt's decision is to be overruled. If the appeal is made, the official went on to state that the cut-off date would be suspended until both agencies could hold hearings on the matter.

At the present Cotton Belt's less-than-car shipments to Caruthersville are brought in by Southwestern Transportation Co., a trucking subsidiary, from Blytheville. It has two trains into Caruthersville weekly and this schedule will be maintained at the present time.

The St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad (Frisco) cut out less-than-carload shipments to Caruthersville last spring but maintained a schedule of three trains a week here at the present time. The new Cotton Belt plan is similar to that of Frisco's. Basically this is that the minimum shipment will be 6,000 pounds, all loaded at one point and going to a single destination. Smaller shipments might be made but the cost will still be for that of 6,000 pounds.

Mayor Rodgers last week said he felt that less-than-carload shipments should be maintained because removal of such service would handicap the community and would place a "real hardship" on the citizens.

The Caruthersville mayor went on to say that the railroad should be required to continue the service so that a competitive price can be maintained with the trucking industry. He indicated that Caruthersville will appeal the decision if other communities do so.

There were signs from the mayors of Dexter, Malden and New Madrid that they might also appeal to the ICC and PSC on the matter but all indicated that it would have to be a united effort on the part of the area communities.

The PSC official, however, pointed out that if the railroad could produce proof that it is losing money on less-than-carload lots there is little chance that the appeals will be approved.

He went on to add that the Cotton Belt move is one that is becoming quite common across the nation by many railroads. In many cases, he said, the railroads cannot compete with the rates now the service offered by the trucking industry without going into the red.

CHARLESTON -- Two candidates have filed for election to the R-1 board of education, subject to the will of the voters in the April 5 election, according to Mrs. H. R. Hequemour, board secretary.

The candidates are Morris Gaines and Billy G. Brown. Incumbents James C. Moreton and Fred Moxley have not yet announced their intentions.

Gaines, 50, has been manager of the Missouri Utilities Co. here since coming to Charleston in July, 1959. A native of Gideon, he moved to Charleston from Girardeau.

Gaines is a graduate of Cape Central high school, and received advanced training from the International Correspondence Schools in accounting and from General Electric Co. engineering schools.

He has a wife, Janet, and two children, Barbara, 17, and Brad 14.

Brown, 37, is a native of Mississippi County and a graduate of Charleston high school. A farmer, he lives three miles west of Charleston, and operates 1,150 acres of land.

He served on the Millar School Board for four years, until that district's annexation with the East Prairie R-2 District.

Brown is married to the former Frances Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Watkins. They have two daughters, Ginger 13, and Jill, 9.

Oran. Dies

ORAN -- Henry G. Hurst, 87, died at a Cape Girardeau hospital Friday. He had been a patient one month.

Born Feb. 20, 1879, near St. Marys, he married Emily C. Donze July 29, 1901. She died in 1958.

Surviving are three sons, Simon M. Hurst, Madera, Calif., Henry L. Hurst, Cape Girardeau, and Alden L. Hurst, St. Clair; three daughters, Mrs. Emily Johnson, St. Augustine, Fla., and Mrs. Verina Courtaway and Mrs. Dorothea Riley, St. Louis, 15 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Hurst was a member of the Guardian Angel church and the Men's Sodality. He was a farmer at Piggott, Ark., from 1918 to 1946, when he moved to Oran.

Services will be Monday at 9 a.m. at the Earl J. Smith Funeral Home with the Rev. Gervase Ingoldby officiating. Burial will be in the Guardian Angel Church cemetery.

Conservatives Win in Austria

VIENNA (AP) — Chancellor Josef Klaus and other leaders of his Conservative People's party discussed today whether to man the government alone or continue the coalition with the Socialists which has governed Austria since the war.

In national elections Sunday, the Conservatives for the first time won a majority in Parliament. They picked up four more seats for a total of 85 in the 165-seat lower chamber.

The Socialists slipped from 75 to 74 seats and the right-wing Freedom party from 8 to 6.

Explorer Post Organized

DEXTER -- An Explorer Post was organized to specialize in the automobile industry, according to Dwight Russnogle, Area Scout Executive.

At the organizational meeting a group of 28 high school boys met at Davis Chevrolet Inc., show room with their advisor, Raymond Webber, Jr., and the men who will be assisting in the program, Chester Medler and George Ross.

It was explained that this group would explore all phases of the automobile industry with men from the various dealerships working together to provide the help in showing and explaining the various departments in the automobile industry here.

After discussing the program and activities, the group elected the following officers: Danny Jenkins, president; Claude Medlin Jr., vice president; Chuck Boyer, secretary; Everett Kyle, treasurer; Lawrence Banken and David Yates, representatives.

Revised Plan For Annexation

DEXTER -- A special session of the city council was held Friday when the council members met with the city attorney Claude Arnold and went over the city annexation plans.

Several revisions were made in the plans submitted by the committee working on the expansion and annexation to the city limits of Dexter. The proposed for annexation include, The Dexter Memorial hospital site.

The new plan for expanding the city limits includes the annexation of East city park, then beginning with the west boundary line of Locust street at the city limits and going north to the Dr. E. G. Bailey, Jr., south property line, then goes west and south of the Bailey property boundaries, crosses highway 60 and follows the highway 60 North right-of-way west until the Hickory House property, Motel, Restaurant and Phillips 66 station, then takes in 900 ft. north of the highway where by these three businesses are included in the annexation plans.

The new expansion line then crosses highway 70 to the north-west corner of the Frank Seuburger property, then goes one-half mile south and east one-half mile, and then north to a point 170 ft. south of highway 114. The line then goes east and parallel with highway 114, 170 ft. south, until it reaches the west boundary line of One Mile Road, then south to the railroad right-of-way, then goes west and south to include the Gordon Hart property.

Council members approved the ordinances adopted by the Mayor which included the repairing, surfacing, and improving of certain streets in Districts 1, 2 and 3.
